Early Report On McCarthy Is Predicted

Censure Hearing
May Be Finished
Before Saturday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP) — Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) said today he thought a special Senate committee weighing censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) could draft a report "within a fairly short time" after it completes its hearings.

One of the six members of the bipartisan committee, Stennis told newsmen he was sure there would be "no holding back of the report" once all the evidence is in hand.

The sooner the committee finishes a report, the greater the chance that the Senate will be called before the Nov. 2 congressional elections to act on a resolution introduced by Sen. Ellender (R-Vt.) to condemn McCarthy's conduct as tending to bring the Senate into disrepute.

The swift pace at which the committee's hearings have moved since they started last Tuesday in the Senate's big caucus room has raised the possibility that the Senate may be summoned into session before the end of the month to take up the censure issue.

While none of the committee members would set any date when he felt a report might be ready, one who was unwilling to be quoted by name said he hoped the job could be completed by Sept. 20.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), the committee chairman, met with two other members of the group during the day to consider whether additional charges against McCarthy should be taken up at the hearings.

Afterward, however, Watkins declined any comment. The hearings are to resume next Tuesday morning after the Labor Day week-end.

So far the committee has spread on its record the mass of documentary evidence relating to five categories of charges culled from among 46 separate specifications filed by Flanders and Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Morse (Ind-Ore.) in support of the censure resolution.

Watkins had said earlier that the hearings could end next week, and Sen. Case (R-S.D.), another (Continued On Third Page)

U. S. Agrees To Furnish Arms For Philippine Needs

MANILA, Sunday, Sept. 5—UP—The United States agreed Saturday to provide the bulk of military material needed to build up and modernize the Philippine army as part of the southeast Asian defense against communism.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles reached the agreement at a one-day meeting here with Philippine officials, including President Ramon Magsaysay on joint U.S.-Philippine defense.

"In view of the development in Southeast Asia," a communique said at the end of the talks, "the defense of the Philippines requires that the armed forces of the Philippines be strengthened through co-operative effort."

The United States agreed to provide the materials to enlarge and modernize the Philippine army on a "four division force basis," the communique said.

Opening the talks Dulles warned the Reds that the U.S. would fight if the Philippines were attacked. Dulles issued his warning on the eve of the opening of an eight-nation conference to negotiate a Southeast Asian defense pact. The secretary threatened the Reds with American attacks on hand-picked targets if the Philippines were attacked.

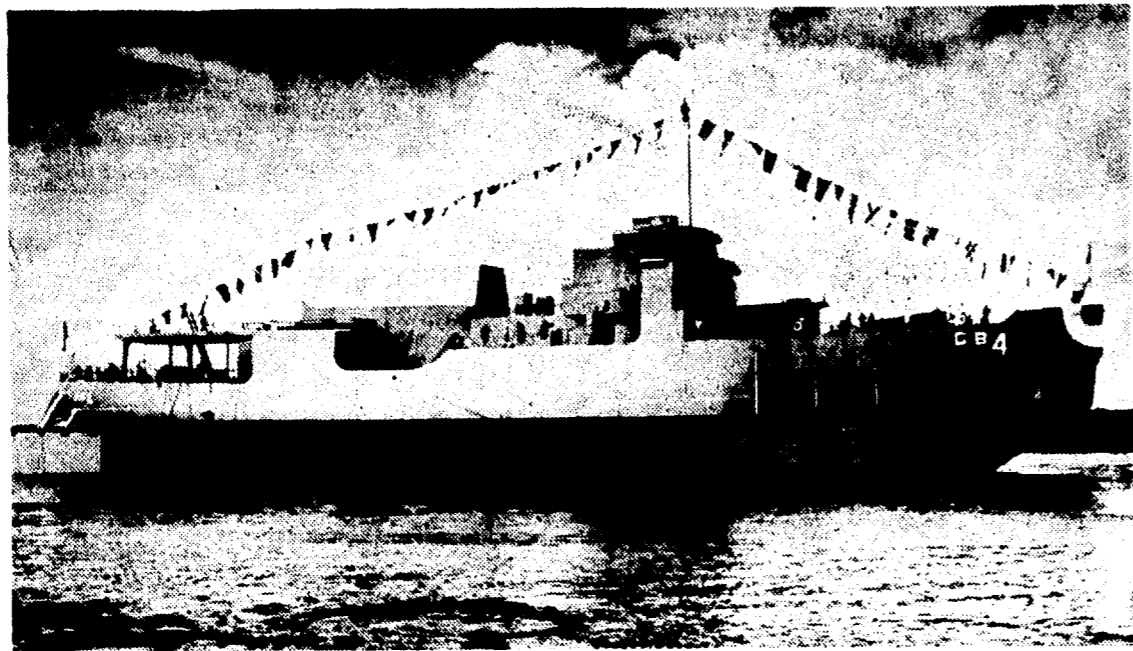

His warning came hot of the heels of a Red artillery bombardment of the nationalist-held island of Quemoy in which two American officers were killed. The Reds bombarded the island off the Red mainland Friday and again Saturday.

Working level representatives of the U.S., Britain, France, Australia, Thailand, the Philippines, Pakistan, and New Zealand, were reported making progress on the draft of the defense pact to be presented to the conference Monday.

Russia Believed Ready To Begin New Drive For European Security Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Russia is expected to make a new move soon to promote its all-European "security" plan, taking advantage of Allied confusion resulting from the defeat of the European Defense Community.

Officials agreed today that the stage is almost ideally set for a fresh Soviet maneuver. However, they expressed hope that a pending American-British-French note to Moscow on the Soviet proposition may blunt whatever thrust the Reds have in mind.

The basic aim of Moscow strategy has been to defeat the EDC, to paralyze or destroy the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to isolate the United States from its European allies and in the condition of weakness thus created to extend Communist power through Germany and France.

Last Monday the French Assembly killed off the EDC under which West Germany would have been rearm, with its forces becoming part of a six-nation defense system. Although American leaders are confident that ways will be found to give West Germany sovereignty and organize a German army in a year or so it is now clear that the EDC defeat dealt a staggering blow to the unity of the Western powers.

The formerly close cooperation of the United States, Britain and France, which have formed the hard core of resistance to Red aggression, was badly damaged in midsummer by the United States split with Britain and France over the Indo-China peace negotiations at Geneva. In addition there is a steadily widening rift between Washington and London over the whole question of relations with the Communist bloc and particularly with Red China.

The decision of British Foreign Secretary Eden not to go to the Manila conference on Southeast Asian security, opening tomorrow, was made against the urgings of Secretary of State Dulles, who is attending, and was a disappointment to the State Department.

Now both Washington and London give every evidence of being full of worry and distress about the future attitude and policies of France. Dulles has announced a reappraisal of American policies toward Europe. London is maneuvering to stay off French demands that Britain assume new responsibilities in Europe.

So little forethought had been given in any of the capitals to the failure of EDC in the French Assembly that there is even great and persistent confusion over what mechanical step to take next. At least a week of diplomatic conversations has failed to resolve differences between America's proposal for a NATO council meeting, and Britain's proposal for an eight-power meeting.

Germany has raised its demands for unconditional sovereignty to a point which any French government may find extremely difficult to accept. Premier Mendes-France, to whom Washington has looked for some sort of follow-up idea, has so far apparently produced nothing except a decision to attend the U.N. Assembly meeting in New York late this month.

In his first press conference in three months, the Eighth Army commander said the first 25th Division shiploads departing Monday will consist mainly of vehicles. The rest of the 25th division will leave late this month and early in October.

The Second Infantry Division will leave "toward the end of the month," the general said. A total of four U. S. infantry divisions, a regimental combat team and large numbers of supporting troops will leave in the mass American withdrawal, along with the Fifth Air Force's combat air wings.

The withdrawal of U. S. troops will leave a three-division United Nations task force, including two U. S. divisions, a British Commonwealth brigade, and other UN units.

Taylor said when redeployment is completed, the Allied forces will have the same number of front-line divisions in Korea that they (Continued On Third Page)

Korea To Start

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 4—UP—The mass withdrawal of United States armed forces from battlefront Korea will start Monday with departure of elements of the 25th Division, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of ground forces in Korea, announced Saturday.

Taylor said that after the bulk of the U. S. fighting strength has pulled out of the peninsula, part of the U. S. Eighth Army headquarters may be moved back to Japan for the first time since the Korean war began in June, 1950.

In his first press conference in three months, the Eighth Army commander said the first 25th Division shiploads departing Monday will consist mainly of vehicles. The rest of the 25th division will leave late this month and early in October.

J. L. Ewing, III Named Chairman Of Chest Fund

James L. Ewing, III, has been appointed chairman of the 1954 Community Chest fund campaign. Jack Howard, president, has announced. The appointment of Ewing to this post was made public Saturday morning, after a formal acceptance before the board of directors earlier.

In making public the appointment Howard said the "board of directors and officers of the Twin City Community Chest are very fortunate to have a man of this caliber and prominence to take this important position. We feel that Jim's acceptance will greatly enhance the prospects for the coming fund drive, which is put on annually to finance seven of our very important agencies in the Twin Cities."

"Jim (Ewing) has shown his ability in handling such undertakings and we on the board are now confident that the 1954 drive will be a great success."

Ewing, chief editorial writer for the Monroe News-Star-World, said in accepting the position he felt "the importance of this job and I sincerely hope I can carry on in the tradition that it has been handled in the past."

"The Twin City Community Chest," he continued, "is one of the outstanding groups in the area since it aids in the financing of such outstanding agencies as the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and others. Through this medium the drives in Ouachita parish are cut from seven through the year to a single one each fall."

"I am confident that the people and businesses prefer to have the single drive rather than many small ones."

"While I appreciate the honor bestowed on me, I realize fully the task before me, along with many workers, in carrying out this important campaign. I am urging the general public to cooperate fully in making this year's drive the most successful ever held in the Twin Cities."

Jes' Ramblin'

The Jacksonville, Fla., Journal, issue of Sept. 2, came out with a statement that Gov. Robert F. Kennon looms as a quite likely successor to the late Judge Louis W. Strum on the United States circuit court bench.

Louisiana now has a member on the circuit court bench in Judge Wayne G. Borah, who was appointed in 1949.

Kennon is a former justice of the Louisiana Supreme Court and is a veteran of the second World War.

Rev. Walter G. Mangham is leaving at 3 p.m. today by bus for Ardmore, Pa., where he will enter Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, where he will work for the degree of D. D. He will specialize in Greek and Hebrew. He already has three degrees from a university in Texas.

On his way east he will stop at Conway, Pa., where he will visit his sister, Mrs. J. J. Jennings, who is best known here as the former Miss Evelyn Mangham.

Friends of Lanier Thompson will be pleased to know that he is planning to assume duties as instructor at Neville High School this week at the opening of the fall term. He underwent a most serious operation a few weeks ago in a Memphis hospital, but has evidently recovered completely from illness.

Strike In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 4—UP—The government promised "drastic" action Saturday to restore order in the strike of 50,000 workers throughout Chile Saturday. The government charged the stoppages were "politically inspired" and warned it would bring responsible agitators to justice.

Ike Makes Tour Of Reclamation Works In West

1,500-Mile Trip
By Air Includes
Three Stopovers

DENVER, Sept. 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower soared 1,500 miles through Rocky Mountain skies today for a bird's-eye look at vast reclamation projects. He touched down at three cities in Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska for chummy chats with farmers, ranchers, businessmen and politicians.

He told an applauding crowd of more than 3,500 at Grand Junction, Colo., airport: "Let's not make Washington the master of any free America's in the development of the West's gigantic projects."

The president swung back to his vacation headquarters at Denver after the third stop at McCook, Neb., where he was welcomed by a crowd estimated by state police at 3,000. He told the Nebraska group that the American people "ought to be slapping us down in Washington if the federal government gets too domineering."

Eisenhower told the McCook audience he got no greater inspiration than when he gets out to meet the people of America. The inspiration (Continued On Third Page)

Gen. DeCastries Shows Effects Of His Imprisonment

HANOI, Indo-China, Sept. 4—UP—Brig. Gen. Christian De Castries, freed unexpectedly Friday night by the Communists, asked solicitously Saturday for the gallant men who with him made the defense of Dien Bien Phu a legend.

"Where is my staff?" he asked when he arrived in Hanoi after 120 days in a Red prison camp.

"Have all the living been returned? Are they all right?"

He spoke immediately of the courage and bravery of the men who defended the isolated fortress until it was overrun by Red hordes May 7.

"I want to make clear I never ordered the white flag to be hoisted at Dien Bien Phu and neither did any of my men," he said.

One of his first actions was to send a cable to his wife, Jacqueline, who was awaiting him in Paris. She last spoke to him by radio telephone one day before the Communists captured the fortress.

"Freed today, returning to Hanoi. Passionately: Christian" read the cable he asked officers to send shortly after his release.

The 52-year-old general was handed back unexpectedly Friday night by the Communist Viet Minh rebels, shortly before the deadline for the prisoner exchange. French said they had no more prisoners to return for the day.

De Castries spent the night on an American-supplied landing craft moored in the flood-swollen Red River. He stripped off his Viet Minh cotton suit and woven straw hat and threw them overboard. Then he put on a new French field uniform with the jaunty red overseas cap of the Moroccan Spahis which was his trademark during the battle for Dien Bien Phu Saturday morning he sailed to Hanoi.

Partly Cloudy Today, Monday

The official temperature recorded at the CAA's Selman Field station yesterday was 100 degrees. However, in downtown Monroe the mercury rose to the 102 degree mark. The official low for the day was 64 degrees.

The government weather bureau last night forecast clear to partly cloudy skies for Louisiana today and Monday, with isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers, mostly in the south portion of the state.

Arkansas sky, it was predicted, will be generally fair during the two-day period. No important temperature changes are expected.

'Long Holiday' Traffic Deaths Mount Rapidly

BY UNITED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed holiday motorists at the rate of two an hour Saturday night which was well below advance estimates of safety experts.

The death rate indicated that many week-end drivers had become safety-conscious after safety appeals by President Eisenhower and the National Safety Council.

Between 6 p. m. Friday and 9 p. m. Saturday 72 persons had been killed in traffic accidents, 44 persons drowned and six lost their lives in non-traffic accidents, for a total of 82.

The Safety Council had estimated that 200 would be in traffic accidents during the week-end, and which ends Monday midnight, at a rate of five deaths per hour.

The weather over most of the nation turned hot and new heat records were set for the day in scattered sections of the Midwest. Chicago had a scorching 96.

In a special Labor Day message, the President compared this freedom to select any job with the "slave state that 'may force its masses to British, endless toil.'"

"Such a government," he said, "never can produce that deep and tremendous surge of might which comes to a nation when each man knows that he is driving a wedge or placing a turbine or operating a lathe because he is a free man, and that to this endeavor he freely sets his hand."

Michigan and Wisconsin ordered out National Guardsmen to help patrol the highways as safety experts watched the experiment.

By Saturday night Wisconsin had recorded three traffic deaths, Michigan five, but only three of them on patrolled highways.

Attlee Arrives In Singapore, Weary

SINGAPORE, Sept. 4—UP—Former British Labor prime minister Clement Attlee arrived here Saturday from Hong Kong on a flight to Australia.

Attlee looked tired and haggard. The flight from Hong Kong was delayed by engine trouble.

The Labor party leader spoke briefly to newsmen at the airport, but refused to comment on his long tour of Communist China.

Hit By Missile As Communists Fire On Island

Tragedy Occurs
During Routine
Inspection Tour

TAIPEH, Formosa, Sunday, Sept. 5 (AP) — Two U. S. officers and their Chinese driver were killed in the Communist bombardment of Quemoy Island Friday.

Shelling of the Nationalist-held stronghold just off the mainland of China continued intermittently yesterday. No further casualties were reported immediately.

Death of the two Americans was reported by the Chinese Nationalist government and confirmed by the Defense Department in Washington.

(In Washington, the Defense Department identified the two Americans as Lt. Col. Frank W. Lynn, of the Medical Corps, whose wife, Mrs. Eleanor Lynn, lives at 5021 Waveland Ave., Chicago; and Lt. Col. Alfred Medendorp, Infantry, whose father, Cornelis Medendorp, lives at 117 Griggs St., S.W., Grand Rapids, Mich.)

A Nationalist army spokesman said the Communists probably would soon attempt an invasion of Quemoy, Lt. Gen. Chang Yung-tung, head of the Defense Ministry's political section, however, said there is no concrete evidence of a Red invasion buildup. He added: "We are prepared for anything."

The U. S. officers, were killed by a shell which hit a bunker where they had taken refuge.

(Asst. Defense Secretary Fred A. Seaton said in Washington: "At the time of the shelling, a small number of U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group to Formosa were on a normal training and inspection mission to Quemoy." He said Chinese Nationalist (Continued On Third Page)

U. S. Naval And Air Forces On 24-Hour Alert

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—UP—U. S. naval and air forces, under standing orders to guard Formosa from invasion, are "watching the whole situation" around Communist-shelled Quemoy Island, Assistant Defense Secretary Fred A. Seaton said Saturday.

"We are alert to any responsibility in the area and our units are fully alerted to the U. S. Seventh Fleet which patrols the 130-mile-long Strait separating Formosa from the Red China mainland."

President Eisenhower said recently the Chinese Communists would have to gain over the Seventh Fleet if they tried to invade Formosa.

Seaton declined to say whether his reference to U. S. naval units being "fully alerted" was an inquiry they are making toward the 120 miles of the Red China mainland.

Asked whether the Seventh Fleet's standing orders toward Formosa include defense of Quemoy, he replied:

"I am not aware of any specific orders to that effect."

"Although Quemoy is an 18-mile island from the Red China mainland," he said.

Five In Brawl Are Arrested By Sheriff's Men

Five persons, one of whom received a cut on the left hand, were arrested Friday night as a result of a brawl which occurred earlier at the Starlight Inn, Jonesboro road, West Monroe, Sheriff Bailey Grant said Saturday.

The injured person, Paul Benson, 32, was taken to the Charity hospital, where he was treated for serious cuts of the fingers on the left hand. After treatment, Benson was taken to the Ouachita parish jail, where he was held in lieu of a $250 bond.

Others arrested included E. W. Callender, 42, Mrs. E. W. Callender, 30, L. G. Price, 37, and Raye Lessard, 43. Mrs. Callender is charged with aggravated battery and was held on a $500 bond. The others were charged with drunk and disturbing the peace and had bonds set at $250.

Investigating officers were told by Gloria Albritton, bartender at the Starlight Inn, that Callender, his wife and Raye Lessard started an argument with Benson which later developed into a fight. During the fight, the bartender told officers Mrs. Callender slashed Benson on the left hand.

The participants in the brawl were ordered out of the club, at which time they went outside and continued the fracas. Later Benson and Price got into another fight just outside the inn.

Six other witnesses contacted told officers they saw Mrs. Callender cut Benson with a knife. The city police department also has a detainer on Benson for simple escape from the city jail.

U.S. Young Farmers In Highly Vulnerable Spot

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (Special)—America's young farmers, in a period of high costs, falling prices and tightening credit, are economically in a highly vulnerable position in agriculture.

That is the conclusion drawn in a report by the National Planning Association's agriculture committee.

Two major problems face these young beginning farmers, according to the committee study. They are:

1. A need of intermediate credit for periods of three to seven years to acquire the capital necessary to develop an adequate farm business.
2. A need to obtain knowledge and develop skills in farm organization and management.

"It may be argued that agriculture is getting all the credit it needs, that if it got any more we would have to cope with still larger surpluses than at present," said the committee. "It is true that loans to agriculture should be much more freely granted in some years or sets of years than others."

It was continued, "But here are a million farmers—many already heavily involved in six-month to 12-month debts for the large capital needs of a modern farm, others desperately in need of additional credit for farm development, and all vulnerable in the present period of lower farm income and credit tightening."

"Moreover, in a contracting agriculture, the 80,000 new farmers needed every year will have great problems in getting established. The issue is not extension of more credit to agriculture, but a redirection of credit toward the farms that need it most, with provision for particular adjustments that are most needed, and the development of better arrangements for intermediate credit."

The committee urged use of a five-point program to meet the needs of the beginning farmers for intermediate credit:

1. That private banks redirect their loaning activities, giving more attention to these young families.
2. That the laws and inspection procedures regulating banks be revised to allow and encourage greater extension of intermediate credit for periods of three to seven years for purposes of farm development, while protecting depositors' funds.
3. That increased funds be made available to banks for such loans under a mortgage insurance arrangement similar to that used for the Federal Housing Act, or under a loss-sharing arrangement similar to that developed with the GI loan program.
4. That the procedures and regulations of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks and the Production Credit Administration be revised so that local production credit associations will be able to make a larger contribution to these young families.
5. That funds be appropriated to the Farmers Home Administration be expanded to provide more intermediate credit for this group.

To meet the needs of these young families for educational and technical advisory assistance in farm and home management, the committee urged:

1. That private banks make greater efforts to provide farm advisory service in conjunction with their loans to these young farm families.
2. That the land-grant colleges, collaborating with the soil conservation districts, local agricultural conservation programs, service staffs, local bankers, Farmers Home Administration personnel and others, develop as soon as possible a new program to provide effective educational assistance to these young farmers during their first years as farm operators.

Committee members stressed that emphasis should be placed on self-help in farm and home management, adding, "Provision should be made for turnover so that over a period of years all beginning farmers have a chance to participate. Until personnel can be trained and methods perfected, such a program should be launched on a trial basis with perhaps five counties in each state the first year."

Over one million young families have started farming in this country since 1945, the end of World War II. Each year, about 80,000 new farmers are needed as replacements for those who retire, the report points out.

Many young farm families have "borrowed heavily for capital goods at five to seven per cent interest rates to be repaid or renewed in not more than 12 months. The credit position for many is especially weak because their assets have depreciated in value. Tractors and machinery (often secondhand) purchased a few years ago at high prices have dropped sharply in price. The same is true of cow herds—beef and dairy."

The report declared it did not intend to argue that every newly established farm family should stay in farming or that every family that wants to farm should receive public aid in the form of educational assistance or special credit arrangements.

"But," it continued, "we cannot dismiss this whole problem by a 'survival of the fit' approach. A great many of these million newly established farmers will fail and should stay in agriculture. Further, every year a sizable number of young families will want to start farming and will be needed as replacements—even with the trend toward larger, more highly capitalized units."

Nearly a million people crowd the 991 square miles of the Saar, the largely self-governing state set up in 1947 in an effort to settle the old dispute between France and Germany over control of the Saar's fuel deposits. Coal reserves of 6,000,000,000 tons and yearly steel production of almost 3,000,000 tons give the area industrial significance.

HARRY SCHNEIDER

Young Schneider Elected To Board

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Sept. 4 (Special)—Harry Graham Schneider, Lake Providence hardware merchant and civic leader, was recently elected school board member from ward three of East Carroll Parish. He defeated his opponent, Dr. Carl Kelly by 39 votes.

The parish school board terms are overlapping and the 1954 candidates from ward three totaled six, with Mrs. Elsie B. Terral, incumbent, being re-elected in the July 27 election with 428 votes. Then Kelly was second with 369 votes and Schneider third with 310; they were to be in the run-off of Aug. 31, with Schneider the winner. His four year term, as well as Mrs. Terral's, will begin Jan. 1, 1955.

Sentiment and tradition played a major role in the second election as members of the Schneider family have given loyal and valued service to the East Carroll parish school board for 52 years and four months. This service began with the paternal grandfather, Frederick Hall Schneider, founder of the hardware business, in 1900. He was elected to the presidency on Aug. 29, 1904 and held that office until his resignation of Aug. 9, 1916 to accept placement on the Fifth District Levee Board.

Harry H. Graham, maternal grandfather, became an East Carroll Parish school board member on March 17, 1909, serving in the early years as chairman of the finance committee, president pro tem and vice president until his election to the presidency Feb. 21, 1917. He served continuously until his resignation on Oct. 17, 1926, when he divided his residence between Lake Providence and Sirre Madre, Calif.

Edward Davis Schneider, father of the recently elected member, began his service on Jan. 6, 1937 and held the office of president until his death in May, 1952.

Not adding to the years already listed above, but recorded on the parish record are some 25 years as teacher and school board secretary of a late great aunt, Miss Frances E. Keene, and four months on the school board by a paternal aunt, Mrs. James E. Phillips, the former Miss Nan Schneider, from ward five, who served from Dec. 15, 1932 to March 8, 1933.

It is Graham Schneider, 26, holding the record of being the youngest member ever to hold office on the school board, is married to the former Ellen Johnston and has one son; is a vestryman at Grace Episcopal Church, director of the north Louisiana Federal Savings & Loan, Rotarian since 1947, and has membership in both Junior and Senior Chamber of Commerce, Cattlemen's Associations and Farm Bureau.

Horses will be "kings of the day" in the Twin Cities Monday when the ninth annual R. C. A. Championship rodeo gets underway with a colorful parade of horses, floats and riding clubs at 4 p.m. Monday.

Serving as Parade Marshal will be Clifford Benson, Deputy Marshal is Gregg Sentell.

Benson pointed out that the parade will form on Commerce street in West Monroe at 3:30 and will travel from Commerce to Trenton street and cross the new bridge. The caravan will proceed down Walnut street on to DeSard. At Sixth street the parade will turn north to Louisville and proceed back across the new bridge.

Also riding in the parade will be Lt. Gov. C. E. "Cap" Barham, Rep. Otto Passman, former Gov. James A. Noe, former Gov. Earl Long, Mayor John Coon, and several other local and state officials.

Leading the parade will be Rodeo Producer Homer Todd's white horses and the West Monroe High School band under the direction of Solomon King. The West Monroe High School pep squad will also participate in the western celebration.

Riding clubs from West Monroe, Haynesville, Crossett, Ark., Dubach, Ruston, Farmerville, Bastrop, McGehee, Ark., Eudora and several other towns are scheduled to ride in the parade.

Nine rodeo queens who will compete for the title of "North Louisiana" rodeo queen will be seen mounted. They are Miss Marilyn Mussett of this city, Miss Virginia Tolson of Rayville, Miss Glenda Harris of Haynesville, Miss Ruby Lane Waldrop of Columbia, Miss Patricia Murphy of Bastrop, Miss Martha Jane Mitchell of Ruston, Miss Charlene McIlwaine of Dubach, Miss Robbie Johnson of Farmerville, Miss Nancy Stephens of Crossett, Ark.

In addition there will be ponies, carts and surreys in the mile-long parade.

The Rodeo Association invites all riders who are in the parade to ride in the grand entry each evening. Those riding in the grand entry will be guests at the rodeo.

Returning, when in Washington, D. C., they saw the city taken over by the American Legion convention. They observed the grave of the Unknown Soldier and witnessed when the Legion placed a wreath there in tribute to a buddy. The return was over Skyline drive, and across Natural Bridge, and also they saw Rock City.

tion comes, he added, from meeting Americans "who are paying the taxes." The President said the purpose of his trip was to "bet a little practical education."

Secretary of Interior McKay, Secretary of Agriculture Benson and reclamation officials accompanied the President on his flight.

The first leg of the 9½ hour flight included a close look—from 1,000 feet—at the site north of Colorado Springs where the Air Force will build its 125-million-dollar academy. The plane continued southward to Pueblo, Colo., where it turned westward to go over the Rockies.

This gave the President a look at the site of parts of the proposed 175-million-dollar Frying Pan-Arkansas project. A bill authorizing that work was passed by the Senate in the 83rd Congress but died in the House. The Frying Pan project would deliver water from western Colorado to the drought-plagued eastern sections.

Colorado Republican candidates and one Democratic aspirant—Rep. Wayne Aspinall—were at the Grand Junction airport to meet the President. He chatted briefly with Donald G. Brozman, 32-year-old Republican opposing Democrat Ed C. Johnson, who is retiring after three terms in the Senate to seek the Colorado governorship again. Aspinall represents in Congress the western Colorado district including Grand Junction.

Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth Republican seeking re-election, was also there. He represents the southern Colorado district that would benefit from the Frying Pan project. The President was introduced by Gov. Dan Thornton, a Republican who declined to seek re-election.

Leaving Grand Junction for Wyoming, the presidential plane traveled north and swung over the Dinosaur National Monument, an isolated area on the Colorado-Utah border. Proposals to build a dam on the Green River at Echo Park in the monument area have touched off a nationwide controversy. Conservationists argue the dam, a key unit in the billion-dollar Colorado River storage project, would flood a wilderness area that should be preserved.

Wyoming Republican candidates for state and national office were introduced from the platform at the Casper airport. The President said at Grand Junction it always astonished him to look out of his plane and see a crowd gathering when he is "traveling for some purpose other than what is called politics." He made no mention at Casper of the trip being non-political.

U. S. Rep. Joseph H. Holt (R-Calif.) told reporters in Hong Kong yesterday he was under bombardment on Quemoy for 20 minutes and his plane took off for Formosa amid exploding shells.

Some passengers on the plane said they observed anti-aircraft bursts after the plane was in the air.

The Defense Ministry said yesterday's sporadic shelling of Quemoy was at no time as severe as the Friday bombardment, in which about 5,000 shells were fired.

A communiqué described the inhabitants of Quemoy as "calm." "The morale of our troops is not only high but they have been in a state of fighting preparedness for a long time and are very anxious to fight the Communist bandits in order to have a chance to cross the sea to the mainland and wipe them out."

Quemoy is only about seven miles off the mainland. Communist China's Peiping radio claimed coastal anti-aircraft batteries Saturday morning shot down two Nationalist fighter planes over Friday, Red-held island.

In the Friday bombardment the radio said, one Nationalist gunboat was sunk and a submarine chaser was damaged. There was no confirmation of these claims here. On the contrary, Nationalist sources denied that any ships were hit.

land and some 130 shoreward from Formosa, the island is regarded here as having considerable strategic importance in the defense of Formosa. In Nationalist hands, it virtually neutralizes the important mainland harbor of Amoy, which might otherwise serve as a jumping off place for a Formosa invasion attempt.

Whether U. S. naval and air units would go into action to defend Quemoy from a Red grab was a question American officials were not disposed to answer immediately.

Officials pointed out that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said on Aug. 23 that the U. S. defense pledged specifically covered the main island of Formosa and the neighboring Nationalist islands of the Pescadores group. Quemoy is not part of the Pescadores group.

On the other hand, it was recalled that Dulles had a news conference on Aug. 25 that it was primarily a military decision on which of the smaller Nationalist islands were essential to the defense of Formosa.

Thus on the basis of official public statements, Quemoy was neither definitely included nor specifically ruled out of the U. S. defense zone.

In any event, informants made clear the U. S. Seventh Fleet has been alerted for possible trouble in connection with the Red saber-rattling when reached a new peak with the heavy shelling of Quemoy.

He added, a bad Watkins and Case, that an unknown factor that could change the picture would be the type of defense offered by McCarthy and his lawyer, Edward B. Williams.

Once the hearings are concluded, Stennis said, he thought the committee could file a report within a fairly short time, allowing for the necessary staff work and for "mature consideration" by the committee members.

He observed, however, that the committee itself has no say in determining when the Senate will be called back to consider the censure resolution and the committee's report, since this was left to the decision of the Republican and Democratic leaders.

New Radar For Aircraft Light And Powerful

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—The Air Force announced today development of the nation's smallest and lightest high-power, wide-range radar system for aircraft.

From a high-flying airplane the radar can spot storms, obstructions or geographical features at distances up to 240 miles. The Air Research and Development Command said.

The device, called the APN39, was developed under the joint sponsorship of ARDC and Sperry Gyroscope Co., and is being manufactured by Sperry at Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y.

ARDC said in a news release that despite the radar's small size it has a 5-inch screen, an 18-inch turtle shell antenna and weighs 150 pounds—it can "see" all around one of the Great Lakes at a single glance.

"One photo taken of the radar screen clearly shows Buffalo and Detroit, Toledo and Toronto at opposite extremities of Lake Erie, 250 miles apart," the command said.

The Air Force said the new device will assure greater safety for troop-carrying transports and essential cargo planes in which it is installed.

It is on display for the first time this weekend at the national aircraft show at Dayton, Ohio.

British Story On Sea Power Of Russia Denied

MOSCOW, Sept. 4—U. P.—The Soviet news agency Tass announced tonight it had been officially authorized to deny a recent British Admiralty appraisal of Russian naval power as "terrible conception."

Tass described the British report, published in London Aug. 25, as "unfounded." The agency said the Admiralty relied on the report because it "needed a following wind to bolster its own program of naval building."

The Admiralty estimated the Russians have sent the equivalent of 523,600,000,000 on their navy since 1945. If the present rate of building is continued, it said, the Soviet fleet within two or three years will include 50 cruisers, 1,000 destroyers, 500 submarines, 4,000 naval aircraft, plus other equipment.

TVA Technicians To Meet With AEC

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 4—U. P.—TVA directors announced Saturday TVA and Atomic Energy Commission technical staffs will meet "within 10 days" to explore further the Dixon-Yates power contract.

The announcement was made after TVA's new chairman, Brig. Gen. Herbert Vogel, reported to the other two directors on meeting he had in Washington with AEC about the much-debated contract. Earlier, TVA directors Harry Curtis and Raymond Pate objected that AEC had not given them full information about the contract.

After Vogel's Washington meeting, however, it was announced TVA and AEC had reached a meeting of minds on the contract.

Father Of Slain Army Man Tells Of Reward Offer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 4—The father of one of the two American army officers killed on Quemoy Island said today his son wrote last June that Chinese Reds were then firing on the island.

He also said his son told him the Reds had offered a $10,000 reward for the "capture" of any American officer in the area.

Cornelius Medendorp, father of Lt. Col. Alfred Medendorp, one of the two Americans who were killed, made the statements in an interview at his home here.

Col. Medendorp, 47, decorated veteran of World War II, was killed in the Red artillery attack on Quemoy last Friday.

The elder Medendorp said his son wrote in letters to him in June that "the Communists are shooting at us."

He also said his son wrote that the situation was such that he and other Army men did not dare step outside their quarters unarmored. He said this in connection with his report of the "reward" offer, the father said.

Col. Medendorp, member of the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group on Formosa, went to the Far East in June. He was assigned to Quemoy that month, the father said.

Heat Wave Hits Much Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A late summer heat wave brought 100-degree-plus temperatures Saturday from Springfield, Ill., to Jackson, Miss., and from Topeka, Kan., to Knoxville, Tenn.

Temperatures over the 90 mark covered more than half of the nation.

Top readings of 104 were recorded in St. Louis, Vandalia, Ill., Nashville and Fort Smith, Ark., and in the far Southwest, Gila Bend, Ariz., reported 106, and Blythe, Calif., 106.

Temperatures boiled up over the 100 mark in Tennessee and Alabama. Memphis with 102 and Knoxville with 101 topped all previous records for any Sept. 4. Chattanooga's 102 matched that city's previous record. Chicago's 95.2 was a record for the date.

Some representative temperatures in Alabama: Tuscaloosa 104, Birmingham, 100; Montgomery, 100; Muscle Shoals 103.

In sharp contrast, the northern lakes region and the far Northwest failed to reach the mid 90s. Sand Sea, Maine, Mich., was the cool spot of the country with 59.

Louisville's 102-degree mark was the highest ever recorded so late in the year at the Kentucky city. It topped the previous Sept. 4 record of 97.2 set in 1881.

British Labor Leaders Blast U. S. To Japs

TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 5—Seven British Labor party leaders sailed today on their six-day tour of Japan today after a series of conferences in which their vocal leader criticized U. S. policies toward Japan.

The visitors, who came here after a tour of Russia and Red China, will air their views on Japan at a press conference today at the Diet (Parliament) building. They had canceled three previous press conferences.

The group will leave tonight for Hong Kong.

In conference with Lord Socialist and Labor leaders, Aneurin Bevan, British Labor party leader, opposed U. S. policies of urging Japan's rearmament and the stationing of U. S. troops here.

At a closed meeting with Lord Socialist, Bevan outlined to Japanese communists about Japan should be freed from American military domination by Soviet troops.

Highway Patrol Lt. Bill Smith arrived in an answer to a telephone call and found Mrs. Kilgore sitting up and screaming "help me."

Highway patrolmen and officers from several counties surrounded the tavern. Two cars, brought by patrol car from Ponca City, was fired into the building.

Noble County Sheriff Merl Harmon said apparently Kilgore shot himself as the next to the last of his four gas shells and two gas bombs were fired. He said he heard a sharp "crack" at that time. Kilgore was found shot through the left temple.

Neighbors said he apparently shot his wife because she was leaving him. The tavern is located on U. S. 64 twelve miles north and three east of here.

Be It Resolved—

The Monroe Morning World has for many months considered with dismay the tendency in the Eisenhower Administration to "soft pedal" the issue of the International Marxist conspiracy sometimes erroneously referred to as simply "Communism." This newspaper as its readers well know, heartily supported the candidacy of the President. It asked the people to vote for him. It would not hesitate to do so again should he be opposed by a leftward Democrat.

However, it does believe that he has lent his good and honorable name which carries the greatest respect throughout the world, to individuals and organizations not worthy of being associated with him. It believes that these forces are attempting to use his office as their own weapon.

Last week, to this office, there came an urgent letter. Written by Captain Eugene R. Guild who heads an organization of American parents entitled "Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men," it maps out the feelings of one American parent towards the treatment meted out to American servicemen during this and past administrations.

Unfortunately, Captain Guild failed to discuss in this particular letter, the cruel "Status of Forces" Treaty which deprives American servicemen of the protection of the government while they are overseas, leaving them to the "protection" of the foreign powers where they are garrisoned. In any case, the Morning World published the entire correspondence from Captain Guild in hopes that it will help turn the President from his false friends, the leftists, who will stab him in the back at the first opportunity.

Headquarters

Fighting Homefolks Of Fighting Men

Glenwood Springs, Colorado

August 30th, 1954

To The Editor:

War will come to America not because we are not building enough weapons, but because we are not building that "fierce spirit of liberty" which originally made us free.

Russia will not be deterred from attack by a pile of H bombs a mile high, but by proof we have enough spirit to use them.

We can still demonstrate that fierce spirit by showing we are ready to fight, if necessary, to release our Red-held sons. But President Eisenhower, instead of showing that spirit, has been misleading the Reds into the belief that we can only crawl upon our bellies.

That can only lead to war. Mr. Eisenhower needs to be censured and put on the right track.

Captain E. R. Guild

This is Captain Guild's communication to Senator McCarthy of the same date:

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy

Senate Office Bldg.

Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator McCarthy:

If it is proper to propose a resolution to censure one man for being too hard on the Communists, it is proper to propose a resolution to censure another man for being too soft on the Communists.

The Kin of America's Forgotten Men therefore propose that you introduce in the Senate the enclosed resolution to censure President Dwight D. Eisenhower for being too soft on the Communists, in the course of which softness he has abandoned our American fighting sons to the Red enemy.

We ask it of you because you are the only Senator to defy the President's edict of silence on the matter and to stand up and fight for our GIs held for blackmail by the Chinese Reds.

We do not ask it of you because the President is the one who engineered the Army charges against you, who now through Mr. Flanders has engineered a proposed resolution of censure against you, and who is attempting to punish you for criticizing his deception of those boys who gave their blood, their lives, and their liberty to preserve America's freedom.

We do ask it of you, not only on behalf of those hundreds of dying American boys, but on behalf of untold future American fighting men, on behalf of every father and mother in America. We ask it because if the Eisenhower administration is allowed to carry on our sons with impunity now, the country will be left with American fighting men to die in every land where we are established, and no son of an American soldier will be in line for a burial in his own country.

For the Parents and Relatives of American's Forgotten Men.

Eugene R. Guild

Chairman, Fighting Men's Army

Retired, National Director

The Guild Resolution

RESOLVED: That Dwight D. Eisenhower be censured for softness towards the Communists.

CHARGES AND SPECIFICATIONS

Charge I: That Mr. Eisenhower was soft towards the Reds by failing to uphold the great and honorable tradition that "AMERICA TAKES CARE OF ITS OWN," thereby bringing America into disrepute as a weak, decadent nation.

A. In August, 1954, he demanded the release of our 526 Red-held GIs, but in the same breath, by ordering the withdrawal of the forces in Korea capable of enforcing that demand, he enabled the Reds that he was not in earnest, thereby bringing about the final abandonment of our GIs.

B. For the last twelve months, while our GIs were dying from Red persecution and torture, he made five similar demands, well knowing that without an ultimatum, such demands upon the Reds were empty, hypocritical gestures.

C. At "Big Switch," aware of the withholding of hundreds of GIs for blackmail and in violation of the truce, he broke his promise of resolute action upon such violation, and failed to act forthwith to rescue them.

D. At "Little Switch," aware that the Reds were breaking their word by withholding the most seriously sick and wounded GIs, he failed to act, and as a result GIs died in Red hands between Big and Little Switch.

E. For one year, while more GIs were dying in Red hands, he has failed to obey the law, R. S. 2001, 8, USCA 14, requiring him to act.

F. Although the Red habit of secretly holding POWs conclusively supports a reasonable presumption under the statute that these GIs are still alive, he ordered most of them declared dead, writing them off as a bad debt and allowing the public to be falsely told the law forced it.

G. On April 22, 1954, Mr. Eisenhower talked with the kinswomen of heroes 200 years dead, but refused to see the kinswomen of heroes dying in Red prison camps—the 83 weary mothers waiting patiently in the street by the White House with a petition for redress for wrongs he had done their sons, which document the President would not receive.

Charge II: That Mr. Eisenhower, being Commander-in-Chief and subject to military law, was, like Mr. Truman, soft towards the Reds by "misbehavior before the enemy," a military offense defined as "any conduct not conformable to the standard of behavior before the enemy set by the history of our arms," causing our bloody defeat in Korea. He collaborated with the UN in its fear and appeasement of the Reds, knowing that his course would encourage future Red aggression—as it did later in Indo-China—and bring ultimate war to America.

A. He, like Mr. Truman, deprived our forces of routine protective measures, namely the drying up by bombing and blockade of the flow of enemy troops and munitions en route to kill our men.

B. Like Mr. Truman, he ordered our troops to stand and die but not to win; and our airmen not to defend themselves by pursuing and shooting down enemy planes which attacked them.

C. Like Mr. Truman he did not prevent our "allies" from supplying our enemy with the means with which to kill our GIs.

D. As Mr. Truman fired General MacArthur because he was on the verge of victory, so Mr. Eisenhower relieved General Van Fleet because he also was on the verge of victory—this to appease the Marxists and the UN.

Charge III: THAT MR. EISENHOWER WAS SOFT TOWARDS THE REDS by misleading the people on the Red menace and hampering those effective in exposing it.

A. He concealed our defeat in Korea, depicting it as a "tremendous victory" which had halted the Communist advance; whereas our army was driven out of most of North Korea, which we had previously liberated, and even part of South Korea. He signed a paper leaving a million Red Chinese soldiers in a country where not one had stood before the war.

B. He protected and concealed the Army officer who promoted the Communist Peress, and he backed General Zwicker who violated his oath of office, which required him to be loyal to the United States instead of to some guilty superior.

C. He misled the public into thinking that objection to packing overseas libraries with pro-Red books constituted "book burning."

D. He misled the public into thinking that an attack on a few Red clergymen was an attack on the entire American clergy.

E. He halted the Congressional inquiry into the promotion of the Red Major Peress by engineering false charges by the Army against the chairman of the committee, despite the Army Secretary's admission that he had no grounds.

F. After promulgating the principle that a man should be faced by his accusers, he forbade McCarthy's White House conference accusers to face McCarthy.

G. He defended his friend, General Marshall, who more than any other man is responsible for the loss of free China to the Reds.

H. He left a loophole in his ostensible disapproval of the admission of Red China to the UN, using the escape words "now" and "at present," well knowing that there are no such things as ex-murderers of our sons.

Charge IV: That Mr. Eisenhower was careless of American lives and soft towards the Communists even before becoming President, which substantiates his continuing history of softness toward the Reds.

A. In Europe he withdrew his troops and permitted the Reds to take uranium areas from which they have now produced enough uranium to destroy the United States.

B. He recommended the withdrawal of American troops from Korea, thus inviting the Korean War. As Chief of Staff, he made but a token objection to the weakening of our air power, when he should have fought it even at the risk of his job and his chances with the politicians of ever becoming President—his failure to fight caused more deaths in the Korean War due to air weakness.

This resolution prepared by the parents and relatives of America's Forgotten Men.

EUGENE R. GUILD,

Captain, United States Army,

Retired, National Director.

Who Is Degrading Who?

Senator Ralph Flanders of Vermont, among two other "besser lights" in the Senate has accused Senator McCarthy of "degrading his fellow Senators." In a supposedly "impartial panel" of Senators "hearing the case," McCarthy has attempted to point out that he is not only not guilty as charged, but has been prevented from bringing forth the facts.

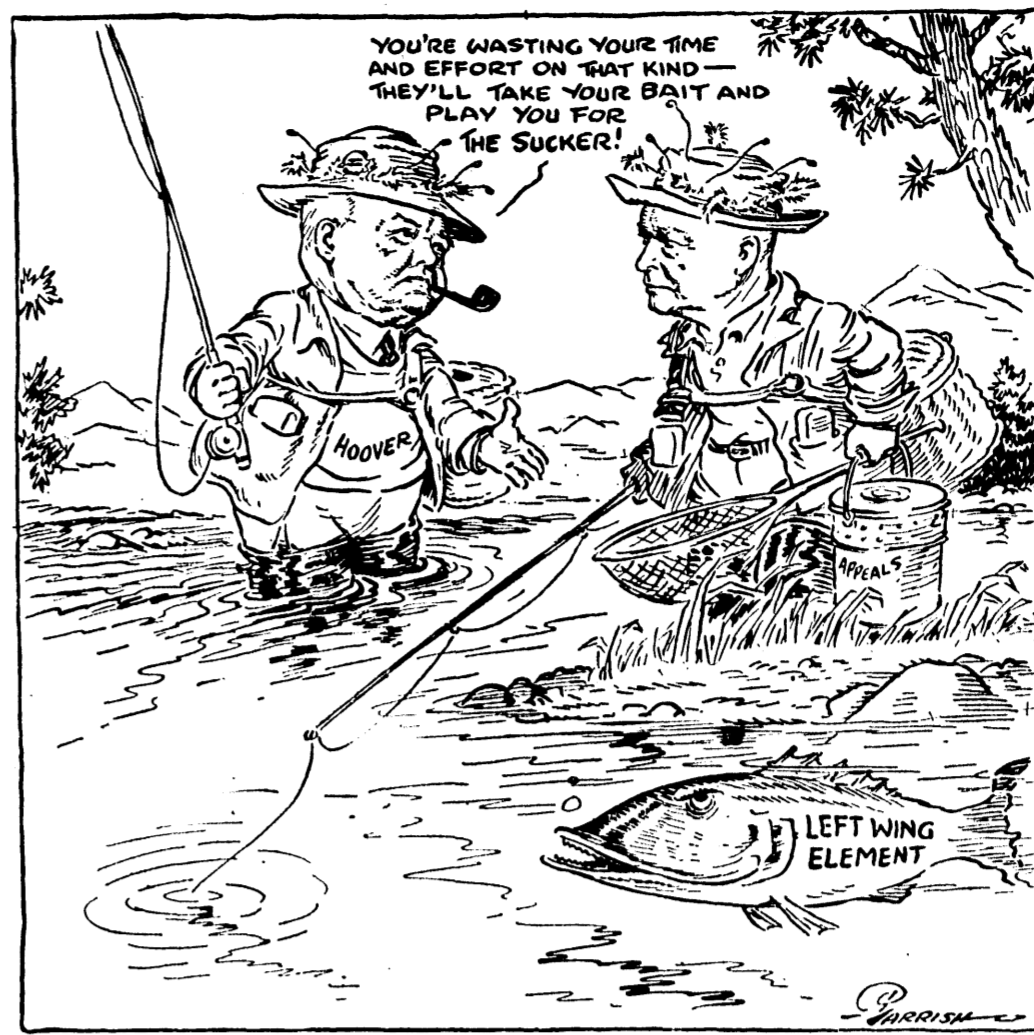

No one has as yet brought forth the "protector" of the Communist Dentist, Peress, nor has anyone attempted to commend Senator McCarthy for attempting to bring these Communists to light. Instead, the slanted reports originating from Washington grow worse by the hour.

This newspaper published a report last week concerning Senator Watkins (the Committee Chairman) who was supposed to have "banged Senator McCarthy into silence and thundered at him." Deliberate and malicious slanting of this news from Washington is not only uncalled for, but unfair and harmful to the American people who are asked to form opinions on the subject.

This newspaper has very personal knowledge of Senator Watkins of Utah, a mild mannered and gentle man who it is not believed would raise his voice or "thunder." A call to no less than three onlookers at the scene was proof positive that "liberal" reporters and rewrite men were incapable of correctly reporting the scene.

Consider this charge against McCarthy wherein he is supposed to have "defamed" a fellow Senator. McCarthy has spoken the true facts as regards his fellow Senators on all occasions. If he had not, he would have been in serious trouble long before this point. Where, however, is the needed censure charge of Senator Flanders whose company has on numerous occasions sold goods to the International Headquarters of the Marxist Conspiracy, Soviet Russia?

In any case, consider carefully a wire originating in Denver, Colo., from the Associated Press dated 3:04 p.m., August 31, of this year. The wire was addressed to Mr. J. C. Phillips, Editor and Publisher of the Borger (Texas) News-Herald who asked for a confirmation on the statement that one of the "impartial" senators "loathed" Senator McCarthy. Here is the wire:

Following is text of Denver Post Johnson-McCarthy March 12 interview you requested: Ed Dooley, Post managing Editor, authorizes use: By Robert W. Lucas Editor, The Post's Editorial Page Copyright, 1954, Denver Post.

"Colorado's two influential members of the Senate, Eugene D. Millikin (R) and Edwin C. Johnson (D) came out swinging on "McCarthyism" Friday.

"Their attacks were in different style, but neither left any doubt as to where he stood on the boiling controversy involving Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, and current developments in his struggles with the White House and the Army. Both were interviewed in Washington by long-distance telephone from Denver.

"Senator Johnson, a member of the Democratic policy committee of the Senate, said that "in my opinion, there is not a man among the Democratic leaders of Congress who does not loathe Joe McCarthy."

"In saying that the senior senator broke a long silence on 'McCarthyism.' He did it coincidental with the release of the Army's report on David Schine.

"Johnson said, 'I do not believe there are more than a half-dozen Republicans who think McCarthy is all right. Most of them are thoroughly disgusted with him,' he said.

"The Senator said that he, and most of his colleagues 'on both sides of the aisle in the Senate,' are 'very pleased over recent developments with reference to McCarthy.' He referred specifically to Senator Flanders' (R) of VT, blast against McCarthy in which the Vermont Republican asked, 'to what party does (McCarthy) belong? Is he a hidden satellite of the Democratic party to which he is furnishing so much material for quiet mirth?'

"Johnson said Democratic Congressional leaders have naturally considered that McCarthy, a Republican, was the Republican's 'problem.' 'Now we're glad to see that they're being smoked out and forced to take a stand on McCarthy,' he said."

The interview of Millikin was along the same lines, but "milder." He never actually denounced Senator McCarthy, only stated that "I don't like some of his d... foolishness."

If Senator Johnson is "an impartial arbitrator," this newspaper believes that Malenkov would be a fit president of the Twin Cities' Chamber of Commerce.

Yet, when McCarthy attempted to voice a like opinion, he was "banged into silence" and "thundered at."

So it goes. One statement after the other. There is not the remotest sign of fairness and decency rendered Senator McCarthy. This is unfair by all standards of Americanism. The very "defamations" or "crimes" of which Senator McCarthy is accused are daily, even hourly, being used against him.

Be Good to Them

"I NOW my life is over, God... And I have reached my end... I ask Your mercy, not for me... But for my every friend... I know it is too late for me... To make amends to You... For everything that I did wrong... Or that I failed to do... Dear God, be good to all my friends... Who have been good to me... Give them at least a corner small... In Your eternity... They have been faithful unto me... Until my time to die... And in their charity have lived... A better life than I... Be good to all who have been kind... To any small extent... And let me suffer for my sins... Whatever punishment."

'Yes Men'

Los Angeles.

Editor, Morning World: Later, I in common with about everybody else, have been reading and hearing a lot about the "Eisenhower Accomplishments." In fact, one of the Los Angeles papers has been running a series of laudatory columns on the subject.

But there is one such "accomplishment" they haven't yet told us about, but I imagine in good time they will (?) That's the decision on the part of the Republican National Committee to withhold campaign funds from all these Republican candidates who do not pledge themselves in advance to walk the like chalk line. (Write protest letters to Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Dick Simpson and the Rep. Nat. Comm. Chairman.)

Now, if that's what we want, it seems to me it would be a good idea just to supply all the proved "yes men" of both parties with little slips of paper with a "Ja" on them and call off the elections. That way we would have a lot more money for the Ike and Dulles friends, England, France and Italy, and the rest of them who vote pretty regularly with the Soviet Bloc in the UN, or refrain from voting at all.

Of course, our real friends such as Turkey, Chiang and Rhee would have to get along with a nickel or two less, but then, they're getting only a dime or two anyway. And it would have the added advantage of shortening the suspense for those of us who care, while we are waiting for a World Federation of Socialist and Communist States to take over.

LESLIE A. SHAW.

For Mr. M's Information

Mer Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World: The English language is probably the most efficient vehicle for conveying thoughts ever devised by humans. It took thousands of years in transition from a few guttural grunts to the present practical speech.

Mr. Morgan used nearly a half column in the August 29th public forum, and expressed nothing more than a fancied political discovery that — F. D. R. "established a Socialist Communist monetary set up, and to make more sure of Communist world conquest, perhaps aided by Churchill and Stalin, the president formulated and worked out the protocol for the United Nations, and made it a criterion for a one world government." Sic.

Roosevelt did nothing of the sort. He had no more influence on the set up of the United Nations than others. He coined the name—United Nations. He spoke elegantly for freedom of peoples and labored for perpetual peace through the United Nations.

For Mr. Morgan's information: The San Francisco Conference drafted the governing treaty for the conduct of the United Nations' charter. It was signed and ratified by the required number of states. The conference was composed of delegates from fifty-one distinct and separate nations.

As a prod to Mr. Morgan's memory: Roosevelt died before the United Nations' Charter was signed and sealed. It seems unlikely that he was in San Francisco to make "the United Nations a criterion for a one world government."

The United Nations, Mr. Morgan to the contrary, was a noble gesture in its conception.

The U. N.'s sins of omission seem to be identical with those of our beloved Confederacy—jealousy of states, federal interference and general incompetence. Will Mr. Morgan be generous enough with his time to enlighten the ignorant about: "How American taxpayers are being fleeced for money to promote Communism right here in our own doors?" And we invite Mr. Morgan to bring up his "historic evidence," as his "foregoing" lacked the proper poundage to convince me that "the socialist took over our country twenty - two years ago."

Just what constitutes socialism in your book, Mr. Morgan? If taxing wealth for the benefit of the poor is the idea, then we have had socialism since the ratification of our constitution. I call your attention to the U. S. Post Office of which you are a beneficiary. Then there is the public school system. Many children have passed through our school whose parents paid not one cent toward the expense of their education. You cannot tax the indigent, or destitute, however willing they are. That kind of socialism is alright, is it not, Mr. Morgan? Where, then, can the line be drawn?

I am old enough, and you are too, to know living is much easier now than it was when we were boys. That does not imply that I am a socialist — not by several Dutch miles.

I still stand behind my thesis that "both Roosevelt and Truman made as good a president as the nation ever had."

While I never admired Truman, the man, I can honestly say I admired his handling of the situation while in the White House.

Formosa, Our Next Pearl Harbor

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World: Your recent editorial, "And So, They Go To War," gave your readers something of good advice and warning. Every American should read it. You have warned that Marxism is a Godless, lawless conspiracy and that the American people will be called upon to fight them in the near future. This I believe with all my soul, and I believe this will take place within the next five years.

The Soviets are working fast now. Since snaring France into her trap, wrecking EDC, Russia is trying to lead her further away from her allies and make treaties with Poland. Such treachery shows plainly that Russia is now playing the part of Little Red Riding Hood's Grandma; Poland is part of the Soviet Empire.

The Russians also have a dangerous trap set for Britain and it may work. The Soviets are bearing down on Britain to get our air fleet out of England. This is the main airbase of the US from which this country could pulverize Moscow. The Kremlin has always lived in fear of this. If Russia promises Britain free trade and not to bomb England, as Hitler did, then it would be no surprise to see our air fleet coming out from there.

From the way things look now, Red China will make the kick-off for World War II. Red China is also part of the Soviet Empire and Russia will force her to make a drive to take Formosa, which would be our next Pearl Harbor. This would take the pressure off of Europe and give Russia the opportunity moment to strike. As sure as a hen lays eggs, Russia is going to force war on the US and free world. The Soviets, or Marxists, don't want peace. It's contrary to their religion.

Later the tape is fed through other machines to figure the monthly bill.

Labor Leaders Say Unemployment Too Widespread

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today he hopes America's working people "will note on this Labor Day that we are currently making progress in providing more jobs for our people."

At the same time, some of the country's top union leaders issued Labor Day messages sharply critical of Eisenhower administration actions on the economic front.

AFL President George Meany said the administration failed to develop a program to create jobs or increase purchasing power during the recent business decline but waited for conditions to right themselves. He added:

"Only time will tell what a dangerous gamble this do-nothing policy will turn out to be."

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, accused the administration and Congress of "extending benefits to organized wealth and offering crumbs to the lower income workers" and of shelving plans to "reform" the Taft-Hartley Act.

CIO President Walter Reuther asserted, "In the light of our resources and our needs, our nation's unemployment is both un-American, uneconomic and unnecessary."

Reuther said there are 141 labor markets with more than 6 per cent of the working force unemployed, including 45 labor surplus areas with 12 per cent or more unemployment.

Mitchell expressed confidence "that the combined efforts of labor, management and the government will continue to improve our economic situation."

"You may be sure," he said, "that the government will not relax its efforts to extend all possible help to labor and management in their programs to provide more jobs for those who want them."

American workers are better off materially than any other workers in the world, Mitchell declared.

"It is our aim," he said, "to see that the share received by the working man and woman bear a fair relation to his contribution to the national wealth. Where other systems have, falsely claimed to do this through governmental direction, we have in our country, in fact, achieved it through the free-enterprise economic system."

Meany and Reuther both pictured labor as leading the free world's fight against communism.

Reuther said, "The free labor movement of the world has been, and continues to be, in the vanguard of freedom's fighters against the evil forces of Communist tyranny and all other ugly forms of totalitarianism."

"Free labor has effectively met the Communist challenge because free labor has worked at the practical day-to-day job of fighting economic and social injustices which are the essential ingredients out of which communism builds its power."

Meany said "Labor has shown the way to halt Communist subversion. Our free trade union movement has become the first line of defense against the spread of communism by means other than military force."

"We know that free trade unions by raising living standards can build psychological defenses against Communist slavery which are no less effective than guns and tanks."

For this reason, the AFL chief declared, this nation "must remain strong and economically healthy. An economic collapse in America would be hailed in Moscow with as great a delight as a military victory."

$9,000 Damage In Iron Works Fire

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 4 (UP)—Damage was estimated at $9,000 today from a fire at the Progressive Iron Works building.

Firemen said the downstairs section of the building was gutted by the blaze but persons living in apartments overhead managed to escape.

The fire was believed caused by a spark from a grinding machine that jumped to a 16-foot open paint vat.

Machinist At Brooklyn Navy Yard Held By FBI In Big Auto Theft Ring

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (UP)—A Brooklyn Navy Yard machinist sought by the FBI for the last 30 years was put behind bars Saturday as the alleged "Leonardo Da Vinci" of a $5 million auto theft ring.

Authorities said Joseph H. Fiscina, 58, had changed the motor numbers on thousands of automobiles for a major auto theft ring. He was arrested Friday night at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where he has worked as a machinist since 1917, and was arraigned Saturday.

Survey Shows Texas Forests Gain In Size

DIBOLL, Tex., Sept. 4 (UP)—Texas forests are rapidly increasing in size, the Texas Lumber Manufacturers Association said Saturday.

Results of a survey the association said Saturday.

Results of a survey the association made showed southern yellow pine timber, the basic construction wood of Texas, is being scientifically grown much faster than it is being cut.

Clyde Thompson of Diboll, president of the association, said "our survey of East Texas vast piney woods shows growth of timber now exceeds removal by more than 33 per cent."

He said that nearly 2,300 Texas lumber mills and factories are producing timber products. He placed the value of their output at $550 million a year.

Sixty per cent of timber cut in East Texas goes into lumber, the survey showed. Seventy per cent makes pulpwood. The rest is used for a variety of purposes.

Thompson said nearly all of Texas' commercial forestland is in East Texas. More than 170,000 acres decimated by fire and cutting have been reforested, he said, by planting of seedlings and sowing of trees.

Wheat And Rye Set Fast Pace On Grain Mart

CHICAGO (UP)—The two bread grains—wheat and rye—provided the bulls with their main excuse for cheering on the Board of Trade this week. Both made substantial gains, rye setting the pace.

There wasn't much in the rest of the market to cheer about. September soybeans continued their steep decline. Other bean futures were off slightly while corn and oats finished without much price change. Lard fell in sympathy with a break in live hog prices.

Wheat closed 2 1/2 to 4 cents higher, corn 1 1/2 to 3/4 higher, oats 1/2 to 3/4 higher, soybeans 9 cents lower to 1 cent higher and lard 32 to 38 cents a hundred pounds lower.

All rye futures reached new seasonal highs. The gains this week followed upon an upturn of 8 to 12 cents last week. Winnipeg and Minneapolis rye prices also went into new seasonal high ground. March, May and July wheat also made new seasonal peaks.

The Intercontinental boundary and Water Commission has tentatively selected a point just above Del Rio, Tex., to build another great international dam across the Rio Grande.

Commissioners L. H. Hewitt and David Herrera Jordan announced the decision Saturday for the United States and Mexico, respectively. A final decision will be made on the basis of geologic investigations.

But unless the rock structure proves bad, the commission expects to finally recommence a site just above Del Rio, on the U. S. side of the river, and Acuna, Coahuila, on the Mexican side.

This is just below the confluence of Devil's River and the Rio Grande and a dam at that point will prevent another flood like the one last June and July that took 38 lives and did millions of dollars' worth of damage.

"One of the principal advantages is that a dam in this section of the river will control floods of the magnitude of the disastrous record flood of June-July, 1954, which resulted from unprecedented dis-

Home Owners In New Orleans Are Being Swindled

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 4 (UP)—Investigators for the Senate Banking and Currency Committee charged today that New Orleans home owners are being fleeced by fast-talking home repair contractors out of money obtained in Federal Housing Administration loans.

They said that victimized property holders have been quizzed and that eight or 10 would be among about 30 witnesses to testify at the congressional hearings opening here Wednesday.

The committee is coming here as a continuation of its investigation into federal housing "windfalls."

The advance men for the committee are Robert Fink, assistant counsel, and Dean Cromer, investigator. They have been here since Friday.

Fink said the aim of the public hearings will be twofold:

1. To gain facts on which to base recommendations to Congress for the revamping of FHA laws so as to plug loopholes which have led to windfall profits for some builders and fast profits for many home repair contractors.

2. To prevent further fleecing of the public by informing property holders, finance men and others of the practice of certain builders and contractors.

The witnesses to appear before the committee will come from other sections of Louisiana and from Texas, Oklahoma and California. Among them will be Paul Kapelow, president of the Shelby Construction company, builder of the Parkchester apartments here.

Southern Airways Denied Permit To Open New Route

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has denied Southern Airways temporary permission for direct service between Gulfport-Biloxi, Miss., and New Orleans.

But Cecil A. Beasley, Jr., the line's attorney, said the request will be made again when the time comes to renew Southern's certificate.

The airline in seeking to operate the new direct service applied for "authority by exemption" under a procedure requiring no hearing. But the CAB ruled that "complex issues of competition" with other lines were involved which could be settled only in a full hearing. Beasley said such a hearing will be sought when Southern renews its certification.

The line is presently certified to give service between Jackson, Miss., Laurel, Miss., Gulfport-Biloxi, and Mobile, Ala., among other places. In addition, it wants to operate directly between Gulfport-Biloxi and New Orleans.

Huge International Dam To Be Built At Del Rio On Texas-Mexico Border

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 4 (UP)—The International Boundary and Water Commission has tentatively selected a point just above Del Rio, Tex., to build another great international dam across the Rio Grande.

Commissioners L. H. Hewitt and David Herrera Jordan announced the decision Saturday for the United States and Mexico, respectively. A final decision will be made on the basis of geologic investigations.

But unless the rock structure proves bad, the commission expects to finally recommence a site just above Del Rio, on the U. S. side of the river, and Acuna, Coahuila, on the Mexican side.

This is just below the confluence of Devil's River and the Rio Grande and a dam at that point will prevent another flood like the one last June and July that took 38 lives and did millions of dollars' worth of damage.

"One of the principal advantages is that a dam in this section of the river will control floods of the magnitude of the disastrous record flood of June-July, 1954, which resulted from unprecedented discharges from the Devil's and Pecos rivers," the commissioners said.

The commissioners declined to say how big the new Del Rio-Acuna dam will be or what it will cost. But to control floods like the one earlier this summer, it will have to be a huge structure, about the size of Falcon dam, 75 miles below Laredo.

Falcon cost $48 million and was dedicated last summer by President Eisenhower and by President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, of Mexico. It has stopped two floods and probably already paid for itself.

Falcon stores 2 million acre-feet of water and will provide hydroelectric power for both the United States and Mexico. The new dam also will provide electricity for both nations.

Big Posse Seeks Negro In Assault Of White Woman

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Sept. 4 (UP)—A huge posse, including armed National Guardsmen, searched a rural area here today for a young Negro who raped a 20-year-old white mother while threatening to kill her small child.

Authorities said the Negro man, wearing a polka dot dress over rolled up blue jeans, assaulted the woman, whose husband was overseas with the Air Force yesterday morning after her husband's parents left for work.

The woman, who was visiting with her in-laws, was quoted as saying the Negro came into the house while she was still in bed, held a gun on her, threatened to kill her two-year-old son if she resisted his advances, then raped her. The Negro was reported to have stayed in the house for an hour and a half and fled out the back door when the woman's aunt drove up in front of the house.

The posse, using a light National Guard airplane and bloodhounds, split up into six sub-groups to search several wooded areas near the scene.

Authorities said they had "two hot suspects." They theorized that because of the dress he was wearing the rapist might be a Negro who escaped from a prison camp in nearby Muscogee county (Columbus), Ga., or another Negro who lives in the area.

The woman said the Negro fled with one of the rifles from the house and her son's piggy bank which contained about $2.

National Guardsmen were charged with all law enforcement in the county, under martial rule, while conducting Alabama's biggest anti-vice crusade in this playtown.

Konrad Adenauer Assails French For Killing EDC

BONN, Germany, Sept. 5 (UP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany charged Saturday night that French Communists cast the decisive votes in the "very peculiar" procedure which killed the European Army plan.

Adenauer attacked the French government in a radio speech during which he offered "national German forces" for a European army and said that he still believes "the European Defense Community will come true."

Earlier in an interview with the London Times the Chancellor charged that French Premier Pierre Mendes-France "wanted" the EDC killed.

Adenauer's speech was made as these developments in the crisis caused by French rejection of EDC occurred in other capitals:

French officials and newspapers angrily attacked Adenauer for "direct and inadmissible intervention" in French politics. The government made no official comment on Adenauer's charges, but diplomats pointed out that the Germans are hated and feared by so many Frenchmen that Adenauer's statement may win new support for Mendes-France in France.

Official sources concede that Britain's try for an eight-power conference in London later this month on ways and means to rearm a sovereign West Germany are not progressing too well. British diplomats reported that many European governments were looking to Washington for some sign of the course the U. S. will take in solving the European defense crisis. British foreign office sources said they were puzzled as to why the United States has been so silent on the crisis. However, they speculated that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' absence from Washington and the necessity for the U. S. to reappraise its European foreign policy may be blocking a firm American stand.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) flew into London from Germany where he had seen Adenauer.

Wiley is expected to see Prime Minister Winston Churchill, probably to talk of the defense crisis. The Senate Foreign Relations chairman said on his arrival that "European federation has got to come." He said that "France will not fail the West in this troubled hour, I am sure."

Mississippi Special Session On Segregation Set To Begin Tuesday

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 4 (UP)—Mississippi's Legislature opens its "clear for action" special session Tuesday to lay the foundation for dodging the U. S. Supreme Court's decision banning segregation.

Legislators will be asked to change the state constitution so public schools could be abolished and a private system set up.

The goal: Keep segregation. Mississippi is determined to keep racially segregated schools. Many legislators approve of private schools if necessary.

The proposed constitutional amendment would empower the Legislature to abolish public schools statewide by a two-thirds vote. It also would set up a local option method, allowing individual counties or school districts to vote on abolishing schools.

Sponsors claim the amendment is necessary to clear the educational field for action when the Supreme Court hands down its final decree on how and when its decision outlawing segregation in public education will go into effect.

The amendment would wipe out Mississippi's constitutional requirement that public schools be supported, leaving the Legislature a free hand in dodging the court's final decree.

Opposition is evident, with some legislators opposed mainly to the statewide possibility of abolition, although supporting the local option method.

The amendment was the only item in the governor's formal call for the Legislature to meet in special session. But he has promised he will submit a legislative package of other items for consideration.

Most legislators doubt it can be done. The extra items Gov. White will submit now total more than 15. Some likely will be controversial. Six weeks is the average estimate.

A burning drought this summer seems to assure passage of a water resources study that failed in the 1951 Legislature.

The Mississippi Bar Association is supporting a bill to raise the pay of Circuit and Chancery judges.

An attorney general's opinion killed the state's rubber control program. County officials already are applying pressure and Gov. White probably will ask the Legislature to correct a flaw in the law.

College, especially Mississippi State and Mississippi Southern, need dormitories and other buildings. College officials are drumming up support for an appropriation.

Gov. White has suggested five million dollars for the colleges but said he will not submit the appropriation bill unless he is assured by legislators it would pass easily.

"I think they legislators will be ready for it," he told newsmen. College officials "are going after that money." His statement came after a meeting with college officials.

Newspapers were excluded from an appropriation bill which provides advanced training for medical students. Officials realized they would be forced to admit Negroes to the medical school unless something was done to continue their out-of-state training.

Gov. White has the bill ready. Another overhaul of the 1951 Legislature touched the counties

State Troopers Making Drive To Halt Speeders

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 4 (UP)—State public safety authorities started cracking down today on speeding drivers in an effort to match or better the July 4th holiday record in which only one Louisiana motorist was killed on state highways.

Uniformed state policemen began 12-hour tours of patrolling highways around the clock. They are supplemented by the three new plane state police air force in addition to volunteers from the Civil Air Patrol operating out of the various troop areas.

Col. F. E. Moore, assistant superintendent of state police, said air-to-ground radio will be used extensively in an effort to curtail speeding.

Throughout today, the state police planes were busy dropping leaflets prepared by the governor's Highway Safety Committee and the Department of Public Safety reminding motorists to "Slow Down and Live."

So far no traffic deaths have been reported for the long Labor Day holiday.

The safety slogan campaign was started on Memorial Day and is expected to close at the end of the Labor Day weekend.

"Louisiana's decreased traffic fatalities during this campaign so far show that the concerted efforts of state and local authorities, business interest and public information media have not been in vain," said Col. Chester B. Owen, director of the state safety department.

He said that the death toll during the safety campaign period was 47 killed as compared to 71 who lost their lives during the corresponding period last year.

Owen said also that a breakdown of accident records showed that traffic fatalities during the month of June 1954 were the lowest in five years.

Last year's Labor Day holiday death toll was six killed and 107 injured.

Man Convicted Of Tax Dodging Gets New Trial

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed the income tax evasion conviction of Dan M. White and the case was remanded to federal district court for a new trial.

White, a former president of the Industrial Finance and Thrift corporation, was convicted by a jury in Judge J. Skelly Wright's section of federal court Aug. 30, 1953. He was sentenced to 18 months in jail and to pay a $10,000 fine.

The opinion of the circuit court held that Wright committed reversible errors in refusing to admit in evidence a letter which White's secretary testified had been mailed by White while White was in Arizona. The letter asked the secretary to prepare a complete 1954 amended income tax return and file it.

Approximately four and three-quarters per cent of the men returning from a two-year period of duty in the army are going into active pay status in the reserve.

Prices Advance
For Third Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (U.P.)—Domestic cotton prices scored their third consecutive advance in the past week.

The net gains were not large but all active futures contracts made new life-of-contract highs on the New York Cotton Exchange. Friday's closing prices were 5 to 34 points above those at the end of the previous week.

The improvement was attributed primarily to expectations of a rather substantial decline in the forthcoming official crop forecast. It was believed in some circles the crop may have shown a decline of nearly one million bales from the government's Aug. 1 forecast of 12,680,000 bales.

The expected failure of the crop to measure up to official predictions of a month ago was attributed to drought and excessive heat of the past month.

Contributing in a mild way to the upturn in prices were more favorable reports from the textile market and optimistic predictions on the exports for the full season.

Meanwhile, offerings were furnished through hedge selling and profit-taking attracted by improvement of values. Easiness in the final day's session Friday reflected pre-holiday evening-up operations. Despite expressions of optimism on exports by this country for the full current season, actual exports continued rather light and below a year ago.

How To Detect Cancer Will Be Shown In Film

The life-saving film, "Self-Examination," which teaches how to detect the early symptoms of breast cancer, has been screened for more than 3,000 women over the age of 35 throughout the United States. Mrs. Gladys Collins, educational chairman of the Ouachita Parish unit of the American Cancer Society, said Saturday.

Mrs. Collins made the statement in commenting on the educational program which the ACS is conducting as part of its 1954 fund-raising crusade Sept. 7 through 19.

"There are 35 million women who should see the film, but only one in ten is being reached," Mrs. Collins said.

"Cancer of the breast," Mrs. Collins disclosed, "causes more deaths among women than any other type of the disease. Each year about 50,000 women develop cancer in this site."

"To reach all women over 35 with the message in 'Breast Self-Examination' is one of the major educational goals of the American Cancer Society for this year. This educational film was produced in cooperation with the government's National Cancer Institute.

"The film teaches women a sound health habit—how to examine their breasts for symptoms that may mean cancer. This examination should be made once a month. If this practice could be women, thousands of lives could be saved."

The film will be shown at the Paramount Theatre at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Fall Y. M. C. A. Program Is Announced By Leader

Dr. Dewey L. Anderson, president of the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A., announced yesterday that the Y.M.C.A. will begin a comprehensive fall program for youth and adults in the very near future.

The youth program, which is called the "four fronts" program, will be available to all boys in the Twin Cities between the ages of six and 18. It consists of father and son Indian guides for boys 6-8, Gra-Y for boys 9-12, Jr.-Hi-Y for boys 13-14 and Hi - Y for boys 15-18. The youth program committee consists of John Mullens, chairman, Dr. N. L. Moncrief, Bob Clay, John F. Kelso, Jr., P. L. Foreman, Ed W. Crowley and Merle Edwards.

"Y" Indian guides is designed to foster a companionship between father and son. It has as its slogan father and son pals forever. As the name indicates the program of "Y" Indian Guides is based upon the lore of the American Indian. This is because of the common interest of both fathers and sons in Indian life. The main purpose of this program for younger boys and their dads is to multiply the number of things that fathers and sons can do together at an age when a boy thinks his dad is the greatest man in the world. The "Y" believes that comradeship of father and son has mutual advantages that no other program offers.

Gra-Y is the Y.M.C.A. club program for boys of grade school age (9-12). The purpose of the program is to teach its members to be strong in body, mind and spirit and to live in a Christian way in our homes, schools, churches, and neighborhoods. Gra-Y provides an opportunity for a boy to get together with boys his own age during leisure hours under the guidance of a competent Christian leader. Members elect their own officers and plan their program which consists of service projects, devotionals, athletics, crafts, first aid, educational trips, camp outs, group singing, etc.

Jr. Hi-Y is a club program for boys 13-14 years of age. Their purpose is to strengthen their bodies, develop their minds, worship God, and work together for a finer community and a better world. Members hold regular meetings, develop rules to govern their own activities and manages their own affairs. They have special speakers, movies, worship services, forums and participate in a well rounded athletic program.

er the opening of the fall term. Dr. Anderson extends an invitation to all parents and teachers to participate as your advice and counsel are needed.

Any boy who expresses a desire to belong can belong and be a member in good standing regardless of his ability to pay a fee. No boy is ever turned away. Payment of fees is not a requisite to membership but merely an indication on the part of the parents that they are willing to support the program.

Dr. Anderson said the adult program will be organized around the activities in which adult members are the most interested. An interest locator containing 54 different types of available program has been sent out to all members. When these are returned and results compiled program will be organized in all areas in which sufficient interest is expressed. Al Newburn is chairman of the adult program committee and is in the process of securing interested members to serve on his committee.

Parents interested in enrolling their sons or adults interested in affiliating with the Y.M.C.A. should call Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. 5-2553 for membership applications.

The original academic gown was a "decent habit," a full length of dark cloth which, with the tunic, was required dress for students in most medieval universities. The hood was a common part of civilian dress and had no special significance.

News From Public Library

With the approach of fall the publishing world is entering a greater period of activity and new books are arriving almost daily at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Several titles among this week's offerings appear most interesting.

Probably the one which will be most widely read is "The Quaker Bride" by Janet Whitney. This story was serialized last winter in the Ladies Home Journal, but the book form is of course much fuller. It is the story of an attractive Quaker girl, who inherited a large fortune and almost immediately received a proposal of marriage from a most attractive man. Hardly believing her good luck, she married him and went with him to England. There she found herself in the midst of mystery and intrigue, which she solved in a way to bring her happiness and satisfaction.

"Captain Lightfoot" by W. R. Burnett is an exciting and witty story of the adventures of an eighteenth century Irish highwayman. Through a series of misadventures, Michael Martin—healthy, normal, reckless and sound in his basic instincts—is gradually drawn into a life for which he is unqualified. The story of his career makes exciting reading. "The Other Side of the Tree" by Le Roy Leatherman is an interesting novel by a native of Louisiana. It is written in an interesting style and should be interesting to many readers in this area.

"The Feast of July" by H. E. Bates is a story of love and tragedy on the English Moors. It is well-written and will appeal to the many readers who enjoy Mr. Bates. "The Well of the Silent Harp" by James Burke concludes the memorable series of novels, tracing the life of Robert Burns. Taken together he has produced a memorable piece of work, which adds much to our knowledge of Burns. "Three by Ten" is a collection of three of the short novels of Josephine Tey. It is well-written and most interesting.

"Jenny Angel" by Elsie Oakes Barber is a book of fiction dealing with the life of a woman evangelist. It is an exciting and dazzling story. "Beggars in the Sun" by Peter Durbin has its setting in New Orleans. It is a book which will appeal to many.

If you are interested in a good reading material, your Ouachita Parish Public Library is ready to serve you. Visit one of the four branches as soon as possible.

Finely crushed corn flakes makes a different and delicious coating for oven - fried chicken.

Clam patties are delicious for Friday night supper. Mix canned minced clams with a beaten egg and cracker crumbs; add a little of the clam liquid, so the patties will hold together, and a little grated onion for seasoning. Fry in pat-ty-shape in deep fat and serve with catchup or chili sauce, baked potatoes and a green salad.

Ever mix finely chopped green pepper with grated cheddar cheese and use as a topping for broiled tomatoes? Tastes heavenly with broiled steak, chops or hamburger.

Girl Scout News

It will take a couple of Sundays, probably, to record more of the details of the camp at Wawhansee, which closed Sunday. After two full weeks, campers were ready to leave because the time was up, but many of them have decided already that they'll be back next August.

Some of the things they'll remember for a long time are the star-studded, dark nights, the sunsets on the lake, the cool swimming water, the good food, their counselors, the new friends they made, the campfire light, just lying in camp in a small cabin with three other girls.

The girls in Fern Lodge will probably remember their overnight across the lake as a highlight of camp. They cooked supper and afterward gathered at a clear spot near the water for star gazing. The night was so dark that the water looked black, with the bright stars reflected on its surface. An interested counselor told the girls legends of the stars and helped them to locate constellations.

When the girls sang around their campfire, the campers on Pine Ridge echoed the songs from their buns. Sleeping in a jungle hammock may not seem interesting to our readers, but at least it was a unique experience for the girls. Of course, a few fell out before they figured out the best way of staying in.

The girls in Pine tried out the jungle hammocks, too, cooking bread for breakfast in a nearby clearing. Ethel Easterling, camp chairman, and an old hand at the business of sleeping out, came to camp in time to spend the night with the Pine campers. In the late afternoon the unit tried to hunt, but had no luck, but learned something about how it is done. Perfection Unit's baskets were beautiful. Bunny Cannon, Marcella Heidenreich, Evelyn Pankey, Nancy Wilson, Lea Thompson, Sydney Greenblatt, and several others did an exceptionally good job, their counselors said.

Some of the girls enjoyed making pin trays or ash trays of metal, etching monograms or other designs. The new craft house, built just last spring, was the setting for these activities.

Our face is very red today. Somehow, in last Sunday's column we got mixed up on our patriotic organizations and named the wrong one as awarding the prizes at camp. It was the Amvets Auxiliary, Mrs. Dan Pickens, president, which made the presentation. We apologize — those things happen to most of us sometimes, don't they? Anyway, it was a gracious gesture, and we're sure Mary Jo Strusser and Carolyn Thompson will long treasure their prizes.

More next Sunday. Then it will be time for regular Scout meetings to start, and for camp to be something to look forward to again next summer.

Vows Pledged In Tallulah

TALLULAH — Miss Sarah Gene Byrd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorman W. Byrd and Mr. Isaac Theodore Crothers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm M. Crothers were married at the Presbyterian church of Tallulah here Thursday afternoon at five o'clock. The Rev. Arthur Strickland read the impressive double ring ceremony and Mrs. J. E. Furr played the nuptial music.

White candles in tall white floor standards trimmed with fern and a white floor basket filled with white gladioli, chrysanthemums and fern formed the decorations for the marriage scene.

Mrs. Le'Evelyn Grace, the bride's only attendant wore a rose beige faille, princess style dress, blue velvet hat and brown shoes and carried a French bouquet of white stock and pink carnations. The bride was lovely in her wedding dress of off-white brocade faille, designed with princess lines with bodice trimmed with pearls and rhinestones, short sleeves and portrait neckline. She wore a matching brush velvet hat and white shoes. Her flowers were tube roses, and florets of stock centered with a white orchid on a white Bible.

The bridegroom had as his best man Mr. Curtis Bourgois and Mr. Melvin Finlayson served as usher. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Byrd chose a pink lace dress and a corsage of purple asters and Mrs. Crothers, mother of the groom, was attired in light brown lace and her corsage was yellow carnations.

The couple left for a wedding trip to the Gulf coast and on their return will reside at Ruston, La., where they will be students at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

son of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Thompson were married in a double ring ceremony at the Methodist church in Tallulah, Saturday morning at six o'clock. The Rev. William F. Mayo was the officiating minister. The entire altar rail held clusters of magnolia foliage and with in the chancel white candles in tall white floor standards, entwined with ivy formed the effective setting for the wedding.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. C. Shorwin played "At Dawning," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was attired in a princess style dress of navy silk shantung with white trim with which she wore white accessories and a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds and tuberoses.

After the ceremony Mrs. V. R. Thompson entertained with a coffee at her home and the couple left for Baton Rouge where Mr. Thompson is employed. They will reside at 749 Boyd ave.

Florida Plants Can Grow Here

Labor Day brings with it reminders of many garden jobs. First the origin of Labor Day — this goes back to 1882 when a parade was held on the streets of New York City. It was in tribute to the nation's working men and women. The idea was first suggested by Peter J. McGuire, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters. During the next twelve years, workers in many organizations tried to get this day named an official holiday. Finally in 1894 congress passed the bill.

September Garden Jobs

This is the month to transplant daylilies. Mrs. Pittard showed you just how to do that on TV last Tuesday. She said to cut off the fleshy roots, plant on a mound and water. This is also the month to cut off the tops of established daylily plants and fertilize with 8-8-8. (Add that last sentence to your September page in your garden calendar you received from this office. I found I omitted that when working up the book.)

Clean up flower and shrubbery beds and get soil worked and pulverized for planting spring blooming annuals and perennials. The list is in your garden calendar.

Florida Plants

While in Orlando and surrounding towns, I really looked the plants over to see if any of them could be grown in north Louisiana. Their foliage plants are many and beautiful and would delight the flower arrangers in this section. Many of these plants can be grown here but would have to be brought in to the house or green house in the winter. Croton is one of these. A number of gardeners here are growing this gorgeous foliage plant. It grows much larger in Florida because it can be left in the ground the year round. They use croton in their landscaping and the effect is lovely. I fell in love with another foliage plant, Hawaiian Ti, especially the green, pink and white stripe. It's a lot like our aspidistra but the leaves are thicker and fleshier and in brilliant colors. This can also be grown here in the summer if you select a shady spot.

The royal Princes tree, a large deciduous plant with purple blooms, was used in almost every yard. Several people have grown this in north Louisiana, but the cold usually gets them.

Their hibiscus is grown as a perennial, so they grow very large. They have more blooms and less foliage than our Louisiana grown hibiscus, even though they grow the same varieties. I'm sure that is because they can be left undisturbed during the winters.

Cyprus Gardens just held me spell bound, even though the thousands of azaleas were not blooming. The 1,200 varieties of palms and the orchids growing in these palms was a treat to this Louisianan.

Everywhere the thick leaf philodendron was climbing in the palm trees. One nurseryman showed me a vine that had grown for 51 years. I thought about the trouble I have getting one small plant to grow in a pot.

I was interested to notice how the Floridians used the yew. One nurseryman said because of its slow growth they use the plant in planter boxes keeping it pruned low. It is very beautiful treated in that manner. At first I thought it must be a dwarf variety, but found it the same as our yew grown here.

There were so many pine needle driveways. I don't know if this was to save expense or to give the rustic, natural look. In all cases the needles were confined in the driveway by a two or three inch high brick edge or by a board. I also saw some pine needle paths but these were too slippery to please me. So much for plants. Let's take a look at the food news since we do have to eat.

Food News

Supplies of beef are heavy and prices are about the lowest of the season. Other plentiful foods are hens, broilers, and fryers; turkeys, honey and rice; medium and small eggs; milk and other dairy products; peanuts and peanut butter; fresh and processed lemons and limes; salad oils and vegetable shortenings.

Many of you have asked about freezing milk, butter and cream. Dairy specialists say homogenized milk can be frozen but milk that has not been homogenized separates and is unappetizing. Butter and cream can be frozen too. Heavy whipping cream can be frozen whipped or unwhipped. Completely defrost the cream before whipping. Long storage is not recommended for dairy products.

I like to whip my cream, adding a small amount of powdered sugar, drop it (like you'd prepare drop cookies) on a cookie sheet. Freeze quickly. Remove and store whipped patties in a freezing bag. Then when I need whipped cream all I have to do is remove a bag from the freezer.

Announcements

Miss Junita Porter, 1408 Jackson street, Monroe, will give you native yellow iris plants if you'll call by her house. This is the bloom that looks like a yellow orchid. The foliage grows tall and luxurious and is pretty without blooms.

Miss Stella Jones from LSU extension department, Baton Rouge will give a poultry demonstration on the "Around Home" program Tuesday, at 1:30 P.M. Dawson and Mr. Aycock especially requested all 4-H Club members to watch the show.

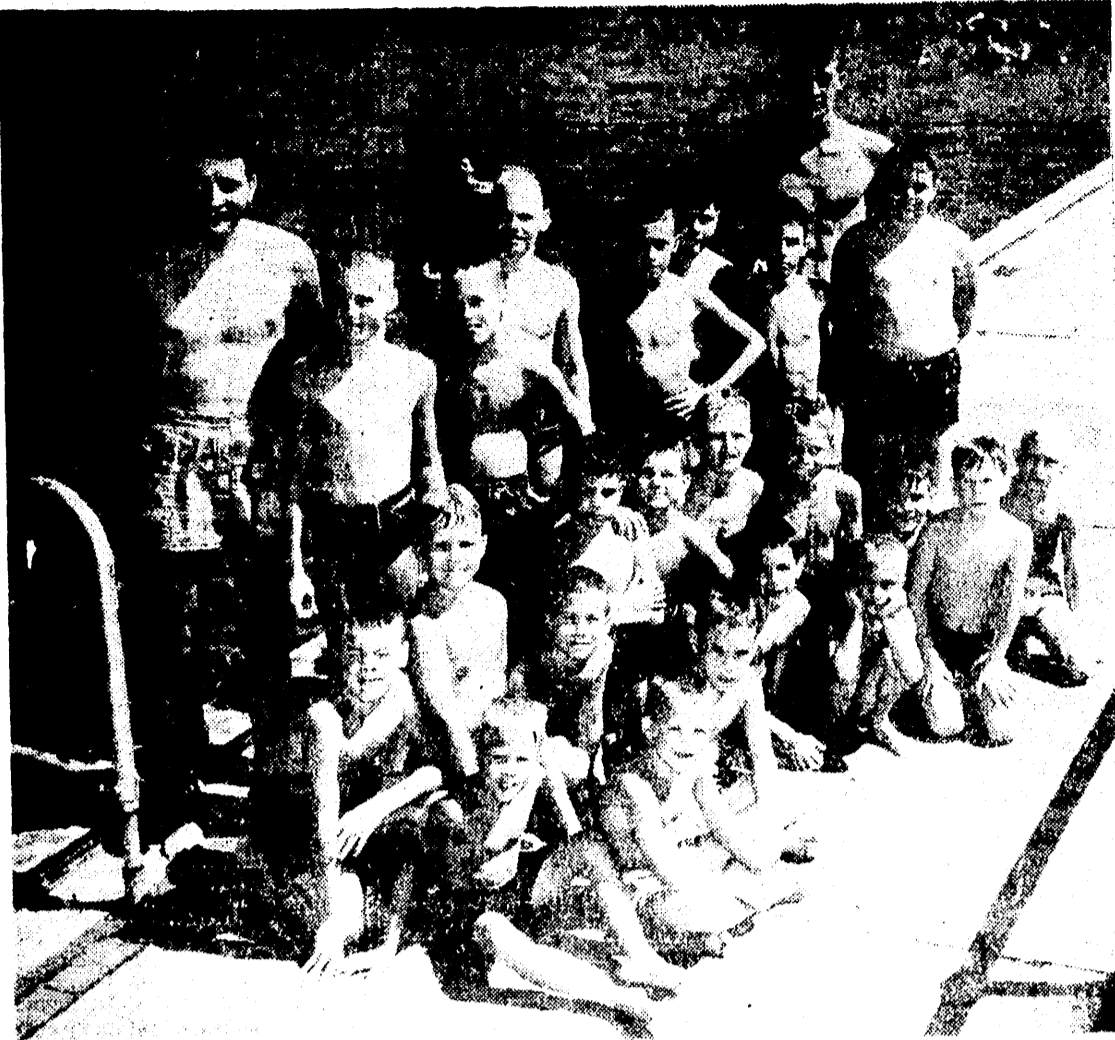

See you next Sunday.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Unusual Flower Designs Top Show For Week

The Garden Center has just received a very welcome gift from the Green Thumb Garden Club of Monroe. Ben Arthur Davis's new book, "Daylilies and How to Grow

BOYS IN FINAL SWIM IN POOL—Group of youngsters from the Y. M. C. A. here enjoy sport in the Swayze Natatorium Thursday morning. This was the final day for the season there of the current year. The boys shown with their leader Charles Wood, Jr., general secretary of the "Y." are: Cliff Pearce, Larry Wood, Charles Johnson, Bob Kelly, Bill Dunn, Joe Goynes, Bobby George, Chris Wood, Mike Stuart, Jim Coverlee, Jerry Mehl, Johnny Pace, Dennis Crowley, Wesley Robinson, Steve Huffman, Harry McCullough, Sam Coverlee, Larry McCullough, Herb Kilpatrick, Sidney Sims, Douglas Kelly, Julian Mehl, Charles Mehl and Harold Bolton. Them." This book has been ordered and will be in the Center soon.

Speaking of welcome gifts, Art and Vesta Evans brought us from West Virginia a basket chock full of beefsteak tomatoes and sweet corn. A most delightful treat as our local gardens are either between seasons or burned to a crisp. We haven't had any luck here with the beefsteak (Crimson Cushion) tomatoes. If any of you have raised this variety successfully in Monroe please let me hear of your methods.

News has come to the Garden Center from Ike Nelson, who at the time of writing was in Cochabamba, Bolivia. He has located a colony of very beautiful yellow ananacallis. Also a hibiscus tree that he thinks would do well as far north as Monroe and Shreveport.

Here's more wonderful news! The Louisiana Garden Club Federation is sponsoring the printing of a book on wild flowers of the Gulf Coast by Caroline Dornon. This will cover Louisiana and all the Gulf States. This new book will fill a great need as Miss Dornon's lovely book "Wild Flowers of Louisiana" has been out of print for a long time.

Congratulations to Mrs. Joanne Dupont of the Springtime Garden Club of Monroe, organized in the spring of 1954. An article by Mrs. Dupont entitled "365 Roses From Cuttings" appears in the September issue of Popular Gardening. See page 76.

In our flower show this week, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove of the Monroe Garden Club displayed a most beautiful and interesting arrangement of local native materials. A round carved wooden bowl in natural oak color proved a most unusual container. Dried palm fronds were used for the background with cat-tails for height. Yucca and magnolia seed pods were combined with green palm berries and bi-color daylilies in the focal area.

Mrs. C. E. McKenzie created a most beautiful line-mass design in a black Etruscan Cup. Spikes of celosia with interesting curves formed the line of the design, followed by red-tinted seed pods of magnolia. Plumes of magenta celosia and variegated Coleus in the same shades completed the design. Dr. Katherine Foster, Welcome Garden Club, designed a delightful asymmetrical arrangement in a soft grey bowl set on a low brass stand. For height, Dr. Katherine used roadside dock and feathery grey dusty miller. The line of the design was made of celosia spikes followed by asters in tints of lavender into rose. The color harmony of this arrangement was most pleasing.

Mrs. Edward Dalton's arrangement was the very essence and fragrance of summer. In a clear crystal rose jar, Mrs. Dalton used spikes of lavender liriopsis, with phlox in a deeper shade and a focal point of creamy white gardenia with its own glossy foliage. The arrangement was set on a free-form black base and a white figurine, the Chinese "Goddess of Mercy" was used as an accessory. Next Tuesday, September 7, we will begin our scheduled flower shows, all the garden clubs in the Fifth District competing for the monthly prize. The Ruston Garden Club will exhibit.

Stonewall Lodge In Session; Rank Given

Stonewall Lodge No. 8 Knights of Pythias held regular meeting Thursday night in Castle Hall. First rank of page was conferred on twelve candidates and the meeting closed in due form. All Knights retired to second floor club room where coffee and dough-nuts were served. Chancellor Commander Harry Strong met on next Thursday night, September 9, 1954 when second rank of page will be given.

GOV. HERMAN TALMADGE

Gov. Talmadge To Be Guest At Forestry Meet

Gov. Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia will be guest speaker at the seventh annual meeting of the Louisiana Forestry Association in Alexandria, Jim Kitchens, association executive secretary, announced Saturday.

At a day-long meeting Friday, Sept. 17, L. F. A. members will review progress in forestry over the past year as well as formulate goals for 1955, Kitchens said. The program, featuring prominent speakers in southern forestry, opens with a luncheon address by Gov. Talmadge, who will be introduced by Louisiana's Gov. Robert F. Kennon. Gov. Talmadge is widely known for his outspoken views on states' rights. He is credited with more constructive work to build Georgia into a great state than all of his predecessors. Talmadge is largely responsible for Georgia's fire, statewide forest protection program.

Association president R. H. Cross, Jr., of DelHider, and Kitchens will present reports to members at an afternoon session to be followed by talks on ways to lick the tree problem by John W. Squires, Jackson, Miss., and on the coordination of forest and game management practices by Carroll J. Perkins, Baton Rouge.

The L. F. A. will announce a new slate of officers, executive committee members, and new board of directors at a closing dinner at the Hotel Bentley Friday night. Thurman Sensing, of Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, Tenn., will give an address at the night session on "Freedom with a Southern Accent."

"Louisiana can well be proud of her achievements in forestry in 1954," says Kitchens. He points out Louisiana forestry scored great progress when two bills designed to provide an equitable forest tax structure and to rid the forests of the woodchog menace, were passed by the 1954 state legislature. Kitchens said "the picture looks bright" for further forestry gains in 1955.

The L. F. A. is a non-profit, non-political organization working to help Louisiana achieve the greatest good from its forest resources.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. M.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

1. WHO BEGINS FALLING IN LOVE EARLIER—BOYS OR GIRLS? ☐ BOYS ☐ GIRLS ☐ 9-4

3. IS THERE AN OLD-FASHIONED METHOD TO PREVENT ULCERS AND NERVES? YES ☐ NO ☐

3. HOW COULD WE CURE MOTHERS WHO ARE POSSESSIVE OF THEIR MARRIED SONS? YOUR OPINION

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Girls, because they mature a year to 18 months earlier than boys. Girls at 11 to 13 — even 10 — begin to doll up and make eyes at boys, while most boys still think they are a nuisance. Girls often complain, "Joe doesn't know I exist, but I'm crazy about him." Soon Joe'll wake up and think an A-bomb has hit him. Parents should understand these profound natural differences.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes — rocking in the grand old American rocking chair, says Dr. DeWitt Fox in "Life and Health." Look at Grandma's picture, she's not sitting up in a straight chair to rock the baby. She rocked and rocked for her peace and health as well as the baby's. Rocking chairs at health resorts do more than sun baths for health and nerves. Back to the rocking chair and the "health and peace that passeth understanding!"

Answer to Question No. 3

3. An English clergyman devised this cure: to have mothers give away their sons in marriage as fathers give away their daughters. Possessive mothers ruin a good many marriages, but this wise man thinks that they said they gave the son away and stuck to it, it would add a lot to the peace of mankind.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: My family and I are taking a trip in the near future of about 2,000 miles. They have invited my fiancée. That is all well and good, but here is where a friend of ours objects: My parents are going to fly back and allow my fiancée and I to drive back alone. The girl's mother trusts her and has no objections and my parents do not object. So why should our friend make such a big thing out of nothing? — T. E. X.

So she (a woman, of course!) can gossip and think the worst. What else? Some dames have so little fun in life. However, because of people like your "friend," you cannot take the cross-country trip alone (together, since your fiancée's reputation will be ripped to fine shreds. It is not a case of not trusting you and your fiancée, it just isn't done. (That's what the book says.)

Dear Mrs. Landers: Could you please give me some ideas that I would be able to use in putting on a skit for a social? We will name the social after the main idea of the skit — Thank You.

Now, how in the world would I be able to supply you with a skit for your nameless social? There is an institution called "the public library" in which you will find many books and a librarian. The librarian will direct you to a book of skits. Simple?

PS — If you find any really hilarious ones (innocent though), tell me know I need one for my women's church guild.

Dear Ann Landers: I soon will be a bridesmaid at my cousin's wedding. My aunt and one of my mother's friends are trying to tell my mother that since the bride-to-be has short hair I should have mine cut short, too. They say that is considered "right." I am 15 and look best in a shoulder-length page-boy. Why can't my hair be longer than the bride's? — Confused.

PS — Please try to hurry and thank you.

Boy! What vital issues we wrestle with! Tell the "girls" in the opposing corner that it is just as "right" for the bride to look "different" than the bridesmaid and thereby stand out, that you'll have no moving of your tresses, since it takes too long for them to grow out and that is the bride must have the bridesmaid's hair shorter, you'll pin or roll it up. I trust she is a little older than you are?

PS — Yes ma'am. You are welcome.

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter and son-in-law recently had an argument that I feel I caused.

I know that they love one another but they are both stubborn. My son-in-law left for a "vacation" without my daughter and says he wants a divorce. How can I bring them together as they have a young son who will suffer if they part? — M. B.

Haven't you done enough. If you caused the original argument? Left alone, the kids will probably come to their senses, kiss and make up. With your fine hand (again!), you might keep them apart forever. If you must meddle, drop each of them a note that says you were the fly in the ointment and hope they will accept your sincere apology and not cause undue tragedy because of you... a broken marriage and an unhappy little boy.

Confidentially: Help Me — At your age that is perfectly normal — hardly possible for it to be what you thought. Ask mother to let you have a "check-up," so your doctor can reassure you. Never worry without doing something!

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Morning World.)

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

A reader writes "I have started on a diet but I am so hungry that I eat two or three bowls of cereal with skim milk in the afternoon."

Avoid Diet Fads; Have Vital Foods And Reduce

Unless one has studied nutrition and reducing diets it is most difficult to get an estimate of what one should do. Probably no other field lends itself to such fads. This is true because it is only human for a woman to hope for some simple idea which will allow her to lose those pounds without self-discipline, and there is always someone to take advantage of her gullibility.

A letter before me says, "I have started on a diet but I am so hungry that I eat two or three bowls of cereal with skim milk in the afternoon. Will this make me fat?"

Whether you lose weight or not depends on the number of calories you get each day through your food. As I have said before, you can lose weight and eat nothing but pile a la mode if you count calories but I would not want to guarantee the state of your health or the way you would look afterwards. Some foods are more fattening than others because of their high-calorie count. However, this is not the way to approach a reducing diet.

Get Essential Foods — First be sure that you have the skeleton diet essential for health. There are certain foods the body must have in order to maintain itself in health. I have given you a list of these foods many times in this column.

The main thing is to have these on the diet each day. After you fulfill that obligation to yourself and to health, if you hold your calories to 1200 or 1400 a day, you will find that you have less left for the high-calorie, non-essential foods.

To go back to the letter from which I quoted, cereals and breadstuffs and milk are three essential foods but these should already have been taken care of on your reducing menus. Therefore, it is best to "fill up," if you feel too hollow, by eating some fresh fruit, or drinking some skim milk or butter milk or tomato or citrus fruit juice. Several bowls of cereal (sugar wasn't mentioned but I will bet that you put some on), and milk can zoom your calorie count quite a lot. Of course this is better than filling your hollow-ness with pastry or some other such food.

Shouldn't Feel Starved — Remember that your stomach has been stretched past its normal size if you have been eating much more than you needed, and that some hollow-ness is to be expected, but this will soon pass. The same, modern reducing diet is satisfying to health and you should not feel starved at all, except at the beginning, when compared to your past habits in eating.

I am helping you get into your fall clothes by offering you my Nine Day Reducing Diet Booklet which will give you a loss of from five to ten pounds in nine days' time. If you wish to have it send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of Morning World.

Post-Korea Vets Still Offered GI Bill Training

Many post-Korea veterans who have unused Korea GI Bill training certificates may use them to go to school this fall under a new law, even though the certificates show the veterans' cut-off dates have passed, D. A. Hiller, manager of the VA Regional Office in Shreveport has announced.

Mr. Hiller said the veterans affected are those who will have been separated from service three years or less by the time the fall school terms begin.

If these veterans wish to enroll this fall, they may present their old certificates and a photostat or certified copy of their separation papers to the approved school of their choice, Mr. Hiller said.

This extension of time to begin Korea GI training is provided by a new law, which gives post-Korea veterans three years from the date of discharge to begin Korea GI training.

Previously, veterans separated before August 20, 1952, had to begin by August 20, 1954. Others had two years from separation in which to get started.

VA has issued many certificates to veterans before the law was changed. Some of these show that veterans' cut-off dates had passed.

Even so, they are still good so long as the veterans start GI training within three years after the date they left the armed forces.

Monroe P. O. To Participate In Safety Program

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced that the post office department has launched a national motor vehicle action prevention program for U.S. postal employees. He stated that this is a major step in meeting highway life-saving objectives set forth by President Eisenhower. It is the initial project under the new safety program of the department's bureau of personnel, the first such program in the department's history.

The new program, under the bureau of personnel, known as the "motor vehicle and traffic accident prevention program," opened in Washington with 35 selected supervisory employees from the District of Columbia and neighboring states in the region of the capital. This was followed by other courses in selected cities all over the nation. In all, 793 employees from 758 major American cities participated in the course.

Edward F. Hayward, Jr., clerk in charge, was selected by Postmaster Woodrow W. Hathorn from the Monroe Post Office to attend the "motor vehicle and traffic accident prevention program" training course which was held in Birmingham, Ala., August 16 through 20. There Mr. Hayward received intensive automotive safety training instructions from top automotive safety experts. These included American Automobile Association authorities who are working with the department in this activity. This course is hailed by specialists as one of the most comprehensive safety programs, from a national standpoint, in U. S. history.

Postmaster Hathorn states that he will initiate a similar safety program among personnel operating the government-owned and contract vehicles at the local post office, in the near future, to help prevent injuries, save human life, and reduce the annual cost of injuries and property damage involving mail-carrying vehicles. From a national standpoint, the department expects to reduce the annual cost of $1 1/2 million for accidents, and through its over-all safety program it expects to realize substantial cuts in the total $10 million annual bill for all types of accidents.

Not only am I vitally interested in safeguarding the lives of postal workers and the public through improved safe driving. I also want the post office department to enjoy the highest possible measure of good will in the community," Postmaster Hathorn stated. "One of the easiest and most effective ways of achieving this is through the safe and courteous operation of our postal vehicles."

Supt. Of Schools Given Authority For Assigning

The recent session of the Louisiana state legislature passed a measure that designates that each parish superintendent of schools shall possess authority to assign a child to any school available.

A portion of the language enacting the new law reads: "Section 1, Title 17, of the Louisiana revised statutes of 1950 is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be designated as R. S. 17:81.1 which reads thus: "Each parish superintendent of schools, throughout the state, shall each year, determine the particular public school within each parish to be attended by each school child therein. No school child shall be entitled to be enrolled or to enter into a public school until he has been assigned thereto in accordance with the provisions of this act."

Data Required When Students Entering School

When children are entered in the kindergarten or in the first grade of school, at the fall opening session Tuesday, they or their parents, must be able to answer certain pertinent questions. These are as follows:

Pupil's name; date of birth; birth certificate; father's name; mother's maiden name; parents occupation; home address.

The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization is studying preparations from soy beans, peanuts and fish as substitutes for milk in the feeding of children.

Summer Salad

Store leftover vegetables (even if you have only a dab of this or a spot of that) in your gas refrigerator. Then you can use them in a zesty tomato aspic salad that's perfect for a hot-weather lunch. Prepare lemon-flavored gelatin package directions, using tomato juice instead of water, and season delicately with grated onion and horseradish. When almost firm, add the leftover vegetables. Mold, chill in the refrigerator, and serve on dark, crinkly spinach leaves.

What's The Big Difference In Foreign Films

By JEAN SIMMONS

(While Jimmie Fidler is on vacation his column is being written by prominent film personalities.)
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4 — Because I'm English, people often ask me what's the difference between making pictures in England and Hollywood. If I wanted to be facetious I'd say the main difference is that Hollywood pictures are made with English actors and English pictures are made with Hollywood actors.
At least, Hollywood has quite a large British acting colony, including the James Masons, Deborah Kerr, Michael Rennie, Richard Burton, Michael Wilding, Stewart Granger (my husband), and myself. The colony's size is apparent even on the set of Darryl Zanuck's recent CinemaScope spectacle, "The Egyptian." Besides me, the cast includes English stars Edmund Purdom, Peter Ustinov and Wilding. While England has no comparable American colony, scores of Hollywood actors have gone abroad in the last few years to make pictures.
This shuffling of actors back and forth across the Atlantic demonstrates that there are no great differences in American and British movies. In fact, the two countries have borrowed so much technical knowledge from one another that it's almost impossible nowadays to look at a film and tell where it was made.

Even actors' accents have become softened in both countries, thereby making their work more acceptable abroad. English actors have been speaking with a sort of "mid-Atlantic" accent — as opposed to the sports and grunts of old-school Englishmen — while American actors were cultivating "theatrical" voices which sound more mid-Atlantic than American, if there is such a thing as an American accent.

However, there are many little differences in film making between the two countries. In the first place, English production isn't the big business it is in Hollywood. Studios aren't as large. There are more independent companies with private financing. This all makes for more informal operations.

One informality which amuses Americans is our stopping for tea. In the middle of the afternoon the tea cart is wheeled onto the set and everything stops for a half hour. No matter how big or important the scene, it is put off while actors and crewmen enjoy their traditional respite. This is true of the stage, too. After the first act, tea is served to the audience. Cars bring it down the aisles and people pass it to one another down the rows of seats. Meantime, actors and stagehands have their backstage. The bad thing about this custom is that when the curtain rises, players have to compete with teacups, raising their voices to be heard above the rattle of cups and saucers being returned to attendants. True, Hollywood has its coffee breaks and occasional Cokes but they aren't complete work stoppers.

English film makers are more democratic than their Hollywood

'Gone With The Wind' Brought Back To Jim

David O. Selznick's production of "Gone With The Wind," probably the greatest motion picture ever made, is now brought to the Jim Theatre in live screen.

The magnificent Technicolor film version of Margaret Mitchell's novel, starring Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Leslie Howard and Olivia de Havilland, is even more spectacular in its new wide screen presentation. Such spellbinding scenes as Sherman's march to the sea and the resulting panic-stricken flight of the populace from Atlanta, the siege of Atlanta and the burning of its munitions warehouses, the glittering ball at Tara and the planing sequences, the marching armies and all the panache of the Civil War era are given a panoramic effect on the enlarged screen that is literally breathtaking.

The moving scenes of this never-to-be-forgotten story gain added dramatic impact in the vast, enlarged color of the wider screen, and the color and pageantry of its backgrounds are immeasurably enhanced.

Many pictures have been made since "Gone With The Wind" was first released, but none has eclipsed the surge and power of this stirring love story laid against Civil War days with its tremendous panorama of a country in the midst of conflict.

Seldom has a production been as perfectly cast. Every character lives as Miss Mitchell made him or her alive in the book. Clark Gable's brilliant performance as Rhett Butler is the forerunner of the subsequent roles which made him the Number One box office attraction on the world's screens. Vivien Leigh is another who made a name for herself as the result of her unforgettable portrait of the tempestuous Scarlett O'Hara. Olivia de Havilland reveals her distinguished talents as the gentle Melanie, with the late Leslie Howard completing the story's quartet of stars with a glowing portrait of Ashley Wilkes.

In the supporting cast are such well known players as Thomas Mitchell, Hattie McDaniel, Barbara O'Neil, Oona Munson, Harry Davenport, Evelyn Keyes and Ann Rutherford.
"Gone With The Wind" is a picture to be remembered as one of the cherished motion picture experiences of yesterday, today and tomorrow. Those who saw the original version will find a new thrill in the enlarged scope given to the film by wide screen. Those to whom it is a first view will remember it for the remainder of their lives.

Gene Tierney, Follows Trend, Enters TV Work

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (AP)—Glamorous Gene Tierney, about to take the plunge herself, expects the remainder of the movie holdouts to show up on television before long.

Miss Tierney says the high quality of some of TV's dramatic productions has made movie stars less reluctant to come before the video cameras. And where they once feared TV appearances might lessen their box office value, she says an occasional video role is now conceded by most to be helpful to their careers.

As for herself, the 20th Century-Fox star says, "I was very pleased they allowed me to do it." She will make her video debut in the premiere of a new General Electric Theater series starting Sept. 26 over CBS-TV in "Nora," an adaptation of the Henrik Ibsen play "A Doll's House."

"I'm excited about being able to appear in a new medium," says green-eyed Gene, who began on the Broadway stage and has a long list of film credits, including the current CinemaScope production "The Egyptian."
"Of course, I feel it would be inadvisable to appear too often on television," she says, "just as I don't think it helps anyone to do too many pictures in a year."

Is she worried about TV's requirement for a sustained performance in contrast to the movie practice of doing short takes?

"I don't have any apprehension on that score," she says. "After all, I started in the theater, and I'm glad it's a live program."
With the summer season of reruns and replacements almost at an end, television's regulars plus a number of newcomers will be parading onto your video screen over the next four to five weeks. Miss Tierney returns to NBC Sept. 21 on an alternate-week basis, with Martha Raye and Bob Hope taking turns on the other Tuesday. On the same network, Sid Caesar's new show begins Sept. 27, Red Buttons (CBS last season) Oct. 1 and Imogene Coca's new solo debut Oct. 2 when Jimmy Durante and Donald O'Connor also begin an alternating schedule with the CBS Arthur Godfrey's Wednesday night show returns Sept. 15, Roy Millard Sept. 16, Jackie Gleason Sept. 23, a new one-hour Chrysler series Sept. 30, Jack Benny Oct. 3 on an alternate-week basis, 1 Love Lucy Oct. 4 and Omnibus Oct. 17.

Among the new and returning shows on ABC will be "The Music of the Night" Sept. 11, "The Ray Bolger Show" Sept. 17, the NCAA college football games Sept. 18, Cavalcade of America Sept. 28, the new Elgin one-hour dramatic series Oct. 5 and Walt Disney's weekly one-hour filmed shows Oct. 27.

Da Mont, which kept most of its shows on during the summer, will resume "Down You Go" Sept. 13, "Life Begins at 80" Sept. 21, "Pro Football" Sept. 22, a news show featuring commentary by Morgan Ruffy Sept. 27, and Bishop Fulton J. Sheen's program early in November.

Prominent on the schedules are the color extravaganzas planned by both NBC and CBS. All will be on a every-fourth-week basis. NBC begins a Sunday night series Oct. 18, CBS' regular color series, Best of Broadway, starts Sept. 17. Both nets will continue to do colorcasts of their regular shows on a rotating basis. But in all except a few thousand homes with color sets, the programs will come out in black and white.

When you drop your lipstick case on a dirty floor, don't waste time fretting. Simply head for the nearest supply of soap and water and rinse it off. After a thorough cleansing and polishing with a dry tissue, the case will look even better.

If the tip of your nose is especially shiny, don't try powdering or wiping it off. Instead wash the oily area with soap and water as many times as you can each day.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

The day after Labor Day, Little Theatre officially begins its new season with try-outs at the Selman Field Playhouse for the opening comedy of the five play schedule.

Seven men and three women will be cast for the production of "My Three Angels," co-authored by playwright Samuel and Bella Spewack. The play is based on "La Cusche des Anges" written by Albert Husson and was a successful Jose Ferrer production on Broadway. The Philadelphia Inquirer called it "a completely captivating comedy." The Christian Science Monitor said "Exudes a welcome and congenial air of humanity." John Chapman in his review said "entertaining in pleasant and preposterous comedy."

The scene of the play is in French Guiana, a region where on Christmas day the temperature drops to 104 degrees, and where convicts can not only live out but apparently never have to report back. The Messrs. fix of "My Three Angels" are employed as roofers by a family in dire danger of having no roof over their heads. On the way from France to a marine colony to oust them from the business, along with the convict is his cold-blooded nephew who is filling papa's daughter for an heiress. The three angels—two men and a woman—appear to take the visitors on. All three had men have sunny natures, warm hearts, clever hands and sleepless brains and all three are passionate believers in the Robin Hood of Man. Posing every animal art and petal grace, they set matters right in a Gaelic Christmas Carol, where it is simpler to bump Scrooge off.

Candidates for the ten roles in the play, do not necessarily have to be presently a member of the theatre, nor do they have to have had previous experience. Little Theatre takes great pride in the discovery of new talent and newcomers to the theatre invariably are proud of the experience and training that stage appearance gives them.

Try-outs will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, September 7, 8 and 9. The time is 8 p.m. each evening at the Selman Field Playhouse.

CHATTERBOX... Little Theatre's devoted friend and actor Sim Black is visiting in town this week end, from a current auditing assignment in south Louisiana. Director Thom Feusterstein planned a small party for Saturday evening at his theatre playhouse apartment that would include Ray and Kathryn Magruder, Bid and Kay Causey and Freeda Mickel... We hear tell that Gerry and Tavie Kenny, both laudible actresses from last season, are getting to be well the peering experts while Little Theatre is taking on its new look... A. O. Evans, treasurer of the Little Theatre board of directors, is a patient at Oschner's Clinic in New Orleans... Mrs. W. J. Riley, Little Theatre patron, returns Monday from a European tour... Miss Bobbie Fernandez of New Orleans is a Monroe guest this week end. Phil Saragusa will be showing her the town... There will be a Little Theatre board meeting this Wednesday evening in the home of new board member C. S. "Chick" Foster... There are also plans afoot for a big painting party at the Playhouse Tuesday evening. What with try-outs and painting scheduled for the same evening, it should be a mad conglomeration of lots of fun.

Hottest On Record

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 3—UP—A temperature of 109.4 degrees was reported Friday in Valverde, a town about 120 miles northwest from here. It was the highest temperature ever recorded in the republic.
